TEACHER-SUICIDE, TO GAIN LUXURIES, FORGED THOUSANDS

Tragic Death of "Edric Davis Brooks" of Topsfield Reveals Amazing Story of Secret Crime and Public Upright Endeavor—Romance in Strange Tangle.

That the forgeries of "Edric Davis Brooks," the popular young principal of the Topsfield High School who committed suicide when ruin and imprsonment seemed inevitable, will amount to many thousands of dollars is the belief to-day in the community in which the remarkable young man led his double career. The exact amount will probably never be known.

The story of "Brooks'" life is amazing. On the one hand was the polished and talented young headmaster, numbering among his friends the most prominent families in the town. On the other hand was the clever forger and swindler who preferred death to imprisonment upon exposure.

BLAME BANKS' NEGLIGENCE.

The friends of Brooks say to-day that the very people whom he swindled and upon whose forged checks he secured large sums are respnsible for his success in his dishonest career. Had he been exposed, even arrested, when his first wrong-doing became known, they say, he would have been saved from the greater offences which he is believed to have committed.

O. E. Lake, one of the many to suffer by the forgeries of "Brooks'" said to-day that the banks victimized were in a measure responsible for the young man's success, inasmuch as they did not cause his arrest when he was first discovered to be a forger. The thousands that he secured by means of his consummate skill with the pen will never be known.

"Brooks" claimed to have been a graduate of the class of 1902 from Yale College. He is said to have enjoyed the personal endorsement of President Hadley of the university, and was a man of extraordinary learning and ability in his profession.

Tragedy Prostrates Girl.

Rumor links his name with that of Miss Anna Woodbury, the beautiful daughter of one of the most prominent citizens in Topsfield. It is said that he was paying marked attentions to the young woman. To-day she remained confined in her room, and is said to be prostrated by the sudden shock of the tragic death.

"Brooks was merely a welcome visitor at my home," said the father. "There was nothing between him and my daughter other than an ordinary friendship. Everybody liked Brooks very much, and his exposure and death comes as a great shock to us all."

B. P. Knowles, father of the young man, is on his way to Topsfield to claim the body of his unhappy son. The suicide left behind a note of farewell to his father. It is in charge of Medical Examiner Jacobs, and says:

"Tell Abbie I am sorry; I couldn't help it. I had to do it."

The "Abbie" referred to is not known by any of the Topsfield friends of Brooks. Claiming to be the heir to half a million dollars, young "Brooks" purchased automobiles with the carelessness of a real millionaire. Last week he accepted a big touring car from a Beverly concern, giving in payment notes for $1,250.

HIS SCHOOL FLOURISHED.

Little is known of the previous history of the young high school teacher in Topsfield. He came to the town last Fall, highly recommended by a Portland teachers' agency. He proved to be more than satisfactory. An amiable young man, he developed remarkable talent and the high school flourished under his administration.

Dark rumors soon began to circulate about the town, however, and it was learned some months ago that he had lived in other sections of New England under other names. He admitted that he graduated from Yale College under the name of Garvan. It was reported that President Hadley of the university recommended him as a man of exceptional talent and learning. He claimed a degree of Bachelor of Arts.

It was learned only a few days ago that "Brooks's" father is F. E. Knowles, a prosperous farmer of South Montville, Me. To-day it transpires that "Brooks" was last at his father's home last November. He is reported to have served a short term in a Maine prison for forgery, the blame of which he places upon a partner.

"WAS ONCE IN PRISON."

To the BOSTON AMERICAN over the telephone to-day, Mrs. George E. Ring, wife of the postmaster of South Montville, said:

"Mr. Knowles's son has not been at home here since last November. He was a very handsome young man and has taught school in several places in Maine. It has also been reported at home here that he was in prison at one time, about three years ago, for forgery. We home folks don't know the particulars, however."

"What was his moral character?" was a question put to Mrs. Ring.

"I refuse to discuss it," she answered.

FLAG AT HALF-MAST.

In Topsfield the flag on the high school building is flying at half-mast to-day and the school is closed. The pupils have only the highest words of praise for their young chief who died by his own hand.

"I don't believe in pulling a man down after he is started on the downward path," said Wilmington Donaldson, a member of the Topsfield School Committee, to-day. "At least, Brooks did not make the poor the victims of his wrong-doing."

In Topsfield it is believed that Brooks's swindling will cause a loss of many thousands of dollars to prominent residents who have received the young "man of mystery" into their homes as an honored guest.

Claimed Maine Home.

Before taking his life, the school principal told the family of Mrs. William P.

LOVE FOR LIFE'S PLEASURES CAUSE OF THIS TRAGEDY

BY REV. A. E. GEORGE.

THE suicide of "E. Davis Brooks," principal of the Topsfield High School, and a Yale graduate, is particularly sad reading.

Here was a young man who apparently had every prospect for a successful career in life. He was well educated, magnetic in his personality, popular among those with whom he mingled in his school life, a good disciplinarian in his work, and throwing a strong, helpful influence around his duties, so that the high school improved under his management.

What was the secret of his downfall?

You would think that a man of his accomplishments would be able to look ahead and avoid the maelstrom into which he finally found himself.

Weak Point in Everyone.

But there is a weak point in everyone of us that tends to eat away all the vitality of our good qualities.

This weak point needs to be looked after and jealously guarded.

This young man undoubtedly knew he was doing wrong in his financial speculations, but he had a mania for this sort of thing.

Every other good quality in his nature had to yield to this one weakness. A man of intelligence and education generally resists the tyranny of such a weakness.

He fought it, but he was too fond of his weakness, notwithstanding his many accomplishments.

He kept yielding every time he was tempted.

Education and culture do not protect anyone unless they really know their personal weakness.

Victim of Circumstances.

To know where you are weak and use your education and intelligence in keeping your self-respect, is to conquer.

This young man was not inherently bad. He was the victim of circumstances.

He wanted more money to enjoy life. He showed it in his purchases of automobiles, and once beyond his depth he became careless and was involved.

Better pay as the principal of that high school might have encouraged him to be more careful in money matters.

He was receiving a miserable salary for his duties as principal. He was ambitious and anxious to add to his income.

Schemes came before him for making money. He may have been advised to go into them by intimate friends. He finally wound up his career by taking the poison.

He is to be pitied.

How long he struggled in his own mind against this ending, no one can tell.

Shadows Thickened Rapidly.

That he did struggle and hope to recover himself is evident, but the shadows thickened too rapidly around him and sent him into despair.

Young men must look out for this tendency of living beyond their income.

It is a mischievous tendency to trifle with. Once embarked upon, it is likely to bring no end of trouble.

This young man, intelligent, gifted, with a good future as an educator, lived beyond his income and speculated to catch up with what he wanted.

It is always dangerous when it gets the upper hand, and it drives its victim to shame and remorse.

Better see it coming and dodge it every time

HUGHES MAY TAKE UP GOULD PLOT INQUIRY

NEW YORK STATE LIKELY TO PROBE AMAZING DIVORCE CASE.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 3.—A searching probe into the Howard Gould divorce plot by the State of New York is now threatened. Governor Hughes may take up the investigation of the mystery that veils the scandal in the New York Police Department.

Failing in her efforts to have Police Commissioner Bingham explain why the promised investigation into the detective bureau system was dropped so mysteriously, Mrs. Gould to-day, through her attorney, Clarence J. Shearn, makes another formal demand upon District Attorney Jerome to take prompt action on the charges that the detective bureau has been working privately for rich men against her.

Should the District Attorney ignore this final appeal, and it is expected that he will, Mrs. Gould will go over the heads of these officials and ask Governor Hughes to bring the guilty persons to a speedy trial.

To Bare Official Secrets.

Governor Hughes will be asked to instruct District Attorney Jerome to compel Commissioner Bingham to follow up the Detective Bureau investigation without delay.

Mrs. Gould is determined to lay bare the sources of the mysterious power that seeks to prevent the investigation that was started, and which has, for reasons best known to those involved, been dropped like a hot coal.

Mrs. Gould's attorney believes there have been violations of the penal code and that the conduct of De Lancey Nicoll, McLaughlin and Howard Gould should be carefully scrutinized.

The trial of Lieutenant Peabody, who was caught after positive denials that he had been in the Gould case, is likely to be held on Thursday.

Involves High Officials.

The Gould scandal has already involved more governmental officers than any other similar action on record. Not only have the police and officials of the District Attorney's office become involved, but the Postoffice Department has been appealed to on Mrs. Gould's plea that her private mail has been tampered with.

Postoffice officials, it is said to-day, have declared their willingness to follow up every clue that might lead to the detection of criminality in their department. It is declared by Mrs. Gould's friends that Postmaster-General Meyer will be amazed by the charges to be laid before him.

When Peabody goes to trial he may plead guilty with the idea of shutting off an extended inquiry and the cross-examination of witnesses. As a matter of fact, Bingham does not have to accept this plea, and can continue the investigation with the idea of making Peabody incriminate others.

Say Jerome Is Lax.

took place between De Lancey Nicoll and McLaughlin and the other figures in the case has not been thoroughly gone into. At the first interview between Nicoll and Bingham the lawyer forgot many things that he was able to explain later when, from other sources, Deputy Commissioner Hanson was in a position to freshen his memory.

These things, when properly settled, will pave the way for District Attorney Jerome to ask the Grand Jury for indictments if any crime can be proved.

No one can understand why, with what appears to be so strong a legal case, there should be any hesitancy on the part of the local authorities to take up the affair and examine every feature of it. Mrs. Gould's friends assume that there is no reason why Governor Hughes should feel at all friendly toward the local government, and that, in this case, he can find a striking indication that those who commit crimes do not stand in fear of the law so long as they have influential backing.

Castellanes May Testify.

In spite of repeated denials, it is known to-day that so strained have become the relations between some of the members of the Gould family as a result of the divorce action pending between Howard Gould and his wife that the former Countess Anna de Castellane, now known as Mme. Anna Gould, may be asked by Mrs. Howard Gould to visit America for the purpose of taking the stand against her brother.

Count Boni, because of his well-known aversion to the Goulds, may also be asked to tell what he knows about some of Howard Gould's "affairs" in Europe.

Although Miss Helen Gould is making her annual trip abroad, she will without doubt be called into the case as a witness.

That several members of the Gould family likely to appear as witnesses in the divorce suit are fleeing the country to escape the notoriety of a summons, is known.

BEAT OFFICER, GO TO PRISON

In Superior Criminal Court, before Judge Lawton, John W. Laighton, John J. O'Brien, James Conway and Jeremiah Kelly, young men of about twenty years each, withdrew the appeals which they registered in the Charlestown District Court and pleaded guilty to an attack on Police Officer Anthonk Fitzpatrick, May 15. They were sent to the House of Correction to serve sentences of one year each, as ordered in the lower court.

CONSPIRED TO ROB UNCLE SAM

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Testimony of a sensational nature was given recently at the preliminary hearing before the Civil Court of First Instance, in Manila, of the case against Captain Frederick Cole, U. S. A., in charge of the quartermaster's yards at Manila, and Francis P. Thornton, chief clerk at the yards, according to mail advices.

Mr. Quirke, formerly a clerk in the yard under Captain Cole's supervision, testified to an alleged understanding, whereby he, Captain Cole, and Thornton carried spurious names on the pay rools of the quartermaster's shop and pocketed the proceeds.

GUESTS IN PANIC, FLEE LIGHTLY CLAD

LANCASTER, N. H., June 3.—By the burning of the Malcher House, a commercial hotel in Groveton, twelve miles from here, the guests were forced to flee in a panic, in their night clothes. All got out in safety, though some had to leave their belongings. The loss is $10,000.

LIGHTNING HITS BALLOON; KILLS MAN

ROME, June 3.—During a review of the troops by King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena a military balloon was sent up to a height of 700 feet, when a storm burst and a bolt of lightning hit the gas bag. The aeronaut was killed.

Ministers Discuss Strike of Teamsters.

ARBITRATE, TOBIN'S PLEA.

Master Teamsters' Association Forbids Loring to Present Employers' Side.

Business Agent of Teamsters' Union Addresses Clergymen at Congregational House.

Declaring that, had arbitration been agreed upon, the teamsters' strike could easily have been settled long ago, Daniel J. Tobin, business agent of Team Drivers Union No. 25, addressed the Congregational Boston Ministers' Union, to-day, in Pilgrim Hall, Congregational House.

Despite the fact that they had been invited by the clergymen to send representatives and give their side to the dispute, not a member nor officer of the master teamsters was present, although a note was read from Harrison Loring of the Employers' Association stating that he would have liked to be there had not his associates objected.

Unwilling to Confer.

"Trouble might have been averted if the employers would have consented to meet the union," asserted Business Agent Tobin when he had been introduced by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Beals, president of the body. "For thirty days the union tried to get a conference with the employers, but all efforts were in vain. The employers did not want to meet us.

"Then we appealed to the Civic Federation and the Board of Arbitration, but in neither case could the master teamsters be induced to consent to any conference.

"After the strike began the papers of Boston, with but one exception, showed that they were unfriendly to us.

Ask for Arbitration.

"The union is to-day, and always has been, entirely willing to submit its case to any three fair-minded men, being confident of the justice of its cause.

"A teamster is one of God's beings, who suffers more than any other human being. I know this, for all of my life, with the exception of the last two years, I have driven teams for my living.

"One of our principal grievances was that teamsters were unable to collect overtime, no matter how long they worked. When the strike began they were getting $10 to $14 a week per man, and for that they had to work eleven hours every day. We asked for more money because of the great advance in the cost of living, and all that we demanded was 10½ hours work every day, pay for overtime work, and $1 more a week for each man.

"The master teamsters have invariably misstated their case to the public. They have represented the union as high-handed and arrogant. The facts are, that the union does not want to run their business for them. It does not dictate and never has dictated.

Preference for Union Men.

"The master teamsters have not objected to the advance n wages so much as they have to the clause in our wage scale, which asked them to agree to give union men the preference. By this preference we meant that, when two me nequally capable applied for a job, the union men should be employed. There are non-union men in every stable in Boston. We know that, and never objected to this. All that we asked was that in the future union men should be given the preference.

"To-day there are 21,000 team drivers in Greater Boston. In Local 25 there are 4,000 of these men. Three hundred and fifty are on strike and have been since this trouble began.

"All that we demand of the employers is fair play. We say to them, if a man is incompetent, discharge him, disregarding the fact that he is a union man; but when you get his successor, try to employ a union man.

"The employers imported thugs, crooks, bad characters to come here to take our places. We sent 1,000 of these men back to their homes until the courts interfered with us by injunction. Now we are not allowed to spend our own money as we please. The Employers' Association does not represent 5 per cent. of the employers of Boston.

"If we are merely given the chance to present our cause to any fair-minded body of men we know that we would prevail. Since the strike began President Lucius Tuttle of the Boston & Maine had the pay of his master teamsters advanced so that they could pay their man the union wage. Many Boston merchants have done the same."

Following Mr. Tobin, W. R. Eastman, a Socialist, attending Harvard College, addressed the ministers.

HUGO LOSES FIRST COURT SKIRMISH

At the preliminary hearing before Judge Fessenden in the Superior Court, to-day, in the injunction proceedings brought by George B. Hugo, president of George B. Hugo & Co., bottlers, against officers of the Boston Central Labor Union and various other unions, the defendants won the first skirmish, when the judge ruled that the plaintiff must give the names of all of his customers, who have, as it is claimed, been interfered with by the defendants. These names were not mentioned in the complaint.

Many Legal Ligths.

A big array of legal talent appeared when the case was called. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney J. J. Feeley. The defendants were represented by George Fred Williams, Frederick W. Mansfield, John A. McDonald and Samuel Fuller.

In his complaint, which, it is understood, was made out over a year and a half ago, but upon which action has been postponed until to-day, President Hugo declared that the respondents have made demands upon him that he shall employ none but members of the Bottlers' and Drivers' Union.

Plaintiff seeks an injunction to restrain respondents from interfering with him or his company by intimidating, threatening or annoying any persons, firms or corporations constructing business with plaintiff. He also prays that defendants be prevented from declaring a boycott against persons having contracts with plaintiff, and seeks to restrain respondents from "reporting plaintiff as "unfair" or placing or keeping the name of the plaintiff on the "unfair list" or the "we don't patronise" list.

Opposed Teamsters' Union.

Hugo is president of the Employers' Association, and is prominent in the teamsters' strike in opposing union teamsters of Team Drivers' Union, Local No. 25. The Boston Central Labor Union declared a boycott against the Hugo Bottling Company a year and a half ago.

The defendants in the action begun today are Arthur M. Huddell, Henry Abrahams and Dennis D. Driscoll, of the Boston Central Labor Union; John D. O'Brien and Martain J. Mattimoe, of the Bartenders' Union; O. F. Powers, of the Bottlers and Drivers' Union; Dennis F. Donovan and Andrew Taylor, of the General Teamsters' Union Local No. 191; Edward Cohen, of the Cigarmakers' Union, and Edmund F. Ward, of the Brewery Workers' Union.

STRIKE-BREAKERS QUIT WHEN PAY IS REDUCED $1

Nine of the strike-breakers imported to run the wagons of J. S. Hilliard & Son when their regular employes struck, went on strike to-day. The men were all connected with the Cambridge stable of the concern at Charles and First street and were dissatisfied when they were subjected to a reduction of $1 a week in their wages.

When hired the strike-breakers were promised $12 a week for light single wagons, $13 a week for heavy singles, $15 a week for two-horse teams and $17 a week for four-horse teams. This was the wage scale that the union drivers of the concern asked for and were denied.

The breakers claimed that they received the money up to Saturday, which was the first pay day after the amalgamation of the Hilliard concern with the R. S. Brine Company. On that day they found that they had been subjected to a $1 decrease in pay.

HONOR MEMORY OF COL. FINAN

Colonel Bernard F. Finan's memory will be fittingly observed by the Ninth Regiment Veterans' Association on June 25, when a monument will be unveiled over his remains at Mt. Calvary Cemetery. The oration will be delivered by former Congressman William S. McNary, who is a former officer of the Ninth Regiment.

The active Ninth Regiment will escort the Veterans' Association in the parade. In the evening a banquet will be held at Faneuil Hall at which Governor Guild and Mayor Fitzgerald will speak, the guests of the occasion being the survivors who participated in the engagements with the late Colonel in the Civil War. In addition, the officers of every military company in the State will be present.

THE WEATHER.

Fair, slightly warmer to-night. Tuesday, fair and warmer; fresh westerly winds, diminishing in force. Wednesday, probably fair.

High tide—4:49 a. m., 5:28 p. m.

Sun rises—4:09; sets 7:15.

Moon rises—12:41 a. m.

HEAR! HEAR! FAIR, WARMER TO-MORROW

Weather Man Says So, but He Has His Fingers Crossed.

COLD WAVE HEADED HERE

Fair and warmer!

This cheering news came from Weather Forecaster Smith to-day, and he backs up the prediction by declaring further that it will be fair and still warmer to-morrow and Wednesday.

"I can promise only two days of good weather, however," said the weather man. "It isn't safe, you know."

A dispatch from Washington, however, gives one the shivers. It intimates that another cold wave will follow this brief spell of torridity promised, and hints that the Summer, due nineteen days hence, may have to be postponed. There is a cold area bound in the direction of Boston that is now over Montana and the Dakotas.

The Sunday storm—a fifty-mile-an-hour gale, accompanied by a dreary drizzle of rain—is to-day central off the Massachusetts coast and rapidly disappearing out to sea.

Real June Weather To-morrow.

To-morrow the forecasters proclaim Boston will have real June weather, with a possible temperature of between 60 and 70 degrees.

With a wild sea running to-day, and the wind blowing fifty miles an hour down the bay, only one vessel—the Admiral Dewey of the United Fruit Company's service—ventured into port. Fifteen passengers on board, including Postmaster-General Lucy Smith of Jamaica, who is on a fishing trip to Nova Scotia, were suffering from seasickness.

Only the turbine steamship Governor Cobb left port to-day for St. John, N. B., other vessels preferring to remain tied up until the weather cleared.

While passing Governor's Island early to-day, Captain Scott Doane, on the tug Leader, saw a government barn or barrack building on fire. The island seemed deserted.

No June Weather Anywhere.

Not a single town in all North America had a normal June temperature yesterday. Perhaps Key West may be excepted, for there it was really tropical enough for straw hats. In Canada it was cold enough for furs and mittens. Out West it was Marchy, with the mercury flirting around the 30s and 40s.

In Atlanta, Ga., the inhabitants shivered with the thermometer at 44 degrees above. Up in Eastport, Me., they slept under blankets with 38 degrees registered on the piazza tubes.

In New York city it was about 44, but the Coney Islanders thought it even lower than that. Down in the Mississippi Valley the rain was heavy and the temperature low enough to make the farmers fear frost. To-day reports from the South say that the air is once more balmy as it should be.

Off the Virginia coast the gale was a fierce one, and but little shipping ventured outside the capes. Off the Massachusetts coast vessels decided to put in at Provincetown and Vineyard Haven, and last night there were many ships tied up to await to-day's clearing weather.

SEEK TO OUST BELMONT FROM KENNEL CLUB

NEW YORK, June 3.—August Belmont has become the storm centre of a bitter fight, the precipitators of which seek to shear him of what they call the "arbitrary power" he has wielded for eighteen years over the American Kennel Club, undoubtedly the greatest institution of its kind on the continent.

The men who oppose Belmont will take the matter into consideration to-morrow, with the intent to show that the club was incorporated illegally, and that a surplus of $25,000 is due to the complainants.

The "Ashland House committee" is the factor which is militating against Belmont's control of the organization. Its members declare that the traction magnate has caused the dog shows to become subservient to the society levees usually attending such exhibitions and caused them to partake of the nature of lawn parties.

In the legal action, the defendants will be practically Belmont, Hollis Hunnewell, R. C. Vanderbilt, William G. Vanderbilt, G. B. Post, Jr., George Greer, F. D. Ford, Jr., Howard Willits, Harry T. Peters, James Mortimer and Charles Stevenson of Philadelphia.

Arrayed against these men are Dr. J. E. DeMund Brook, Lawrence D. McGuire, Dr. Osgood, J. W. Britton, representing the Women's Welsh Terrier Club; Clair Foster, R. Steward Edson, M. M. Palmer and J. Sergeant Price of Philadelphia.

Not one member of this committee is a man of extreme wealth, while the members of the present board of directors of the American Kennel Club are almost without exception multi-millionaires.

YOUNG NURSE KILLS HERSELF

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—A young woman who registered at a hotel here as Estelle Payne of Baltimore, a trained nurse, was found unconscious in her room from the effects of morphine, taken with suicidal intent, and died in a hospital.

A note pinned to the outside of the door stated Miss Payne was not to be called. The door was forced open by employes. Another note was found on the bureau saying if she was found dead no inquest was to be held.

FORMER WAIF GETS $100,000

DENVER, Col., June 3.—Made an orphan by the San Francisco earthquake, a waif came to Denver with other refugees last year and was adopted by Mrs. George B. Coughtry of Denver. Last week again the child became an orphan by the death of Mrs. Coughtry, and by the terms of a will opened to-day becomes heiress to a fortune that will not be less than $100,000.

The testament asks that J. Colgate Hoyt and Mrs. Herbert C. Mills of New York, brother and sister of the deceased, be appointed guardians.

WOMAN'S INSULTER DEAD; AVENGING HUSBAND DYING

Infuriated by Wife's Cries, Valentino Crushes Man's Skull and Is Stabbed Himself.

Because of his attempt to avenge an insult to his wife, Vincenzo Valentino is badly cut up and will probably face a charge of manslaughter, while Joseph B. De Laurentiz will be charged with an attack with a knife on Valentino. Peter Puzzoni, the man who is said to have addressed the offending remarks to Mrs. Valentino, is dead. A piece of joist, wielded by the infuriated husband, struck Puzzoni on the head, crushing his skull and causing injuries from which he died early this morning in the Relief Hospital. Valentino, who is said to be dying, is guarded by an officer at the Relief Hospital, where he went to have his wounds dressed, and De Laurentiz is under arrest at the Joy street station, while the woman is held as a witness.

The fracas was waged in Auburn court, known as "Murder Row" in the West End last night. The battle, which took place about 7:30, started over Puzzoni's alleged attentions and subsequent assault upon Mrs. Valentino, created an uproar throughout the section and included the running to earth of an alleged assailant by a mob and the staggering of one of the wounded men into the police station to report the affair.

Husband Hears Wife's Cries.

Mrs. Valentino, known as the "Queen of the Court," who with her husband had been sitting on the front steps leading to her home, started to a nearby store to purchase a bag of peanuts. She had not gone more than a dozen steps when her husband heard her scream out that she had been insulted by Puzzoni, and a second later cry out that Puzzoni had slapped her face.

Her husband, it is alleged, instantly became enraged and, according to the police, grabbed up a club fully three feet long and four inches thick and struck Puzzoni a bolw on the head that caused the latter to drop like a log in his tracks.

This blow had hardly been delivered, the police claim, when De Laurentiz, with whom Puzzoni boarded, and who had been standing by, rushed up behind Valentino and stabbed the latter twice.

Valentino screamed, and his assailant rushed from the scene. De Laurentiz was caught by a crowd on Cambridge street, near Chambers, and Seargent McDevitt and Patrolmen Dagle of the Joy street station, who were immediately on the scene, took charge of him.

Puzzoni Dead; Valentino Dying.

Valentino staggered to the Joy street station, where he was caught on the steps by the officers. Valentino was sent to the Relief Hospital, as was Puzzoni, who was found, after a long search, in bed at his home, by Patrolman Dudley.

Puzzoni passed away at 1:35 this morning, while Valentino, the police says, cannot recover.

OWES $72,856; HIS ONLY ASSET IS $5 BICYCLE

With assets of a bicycle valued at $5 and liabilities of $72,856.48, Walter H. Baldwin, a foreman of No. 91 Colberg avenue, Roslindale, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States Court to-day.

His liabilities are, according to his petition: Taxes, $10; unsecured creditors, 67,146.48, and notes, $5,700. There are fifty unsecured creditors.

Those who have claims of $1,000 and over are:

Point of Pines Attraction Company of Revere, judgment, $50,000; William J. Barry of Barristers' Hall, judgment, $2,000; Louise E. Waters of Revere, disputed claim, $1,500; David J. Gill of Melrose, disputed claim, $1,000; Frederick Tudor of No. 845 Boylston street, Boston, note, $1,000; Lewis C. Reed and others, trustees, Rockland, judgment, $2,000; William Bloom, Summer street, judgment, $2,000.

Under the heading of notes on which Baldwin is liable is one bearing the name of Alonzo White of Winchester for $2,000.

CROWD ATTACKS N. Y. 'BREAKERS'

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 3.—A fierce battle resulted to-day from a collision between strike-breakers on their way to the White Star line piers and strike sympathizers near Christopher street ferry. The strike breakers were accosted by pickets of the striking longshoremen, who tried to persuade them not to go to work. A strike-breaker struck out of the crowd and the trouble began. Bricks and stones were thrown and a fight was raging when the police went to the aid of the strike-breakers.

ALARM BY DOG SAVES FAMILY

OXFORD, Pa., June 3.—A little trick taught a pet collie dog by the children saved the family of William Beattie, a prosperous farmer of this section, from death by fire. The dog saw the house in flames and, not being able to awaken the household by barking, seized the rope to the dinner bell, as he had been taught to do when summoning the hands from the fields, and the wild pealing of the gong aroused the entire neighborhood.

The warning came just in time, for the members of the family barely escaped with their lives. Mr. Beattie had to fight the flames while rescuing his two children, who had been partly overcome by smoke.

EATS POUND CANDY, WILL SURELY DIE

LONGMONT, Col., June 3.—His fondness for sweets will, the doctors say, cause the death of Fay King, an eighteen-year-old youth of Studleigh, Kan., who is in a critical condition, suffering from ptomaine poisoning.

King was employed on a ranch near here, and while in the city overloaded his stomach with candy. He was taken suddenly ill. He was visiting here.

ANCIENTS IN RAIN PARADE TO SERVICES

Bad weather didn't dampen the spirits of the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, who celebrate to-day their 269th anniversary.

Line of march forms at Faneuil Hall at 1 o'clock, and the column will escort Governor Guild to the New Old South Church, where the annual services will be held. The Rev. Thomas Van Ness, pastor of the Second Church, Copley square, will preach the anniversary sermon and an ode will be read by the Rev. M. K. Schermerhorn of Poughkeepsie.

After the church service the column will march to the Common by way of Boylston, Arlington and Beacon streets, where at 4:30 the impressive exercises incident to the drum head election and commissioning of officers, with the booming of cannon and the review by the Governor will take place on the parade ground. From the Common the company will go to Faneuil Hall to enjoy the reception and banquet which will culminate the birthday fete.

STOCK MARKET OPENS SHAKY

NEW YORK, June 3.—Greater demoralization prevailed in the stock market this morning than has been noted at any time since the March depression.

London sold 25,000 shares in a few minutes after the opening, starting the market on a downward movement and forcing other sellers to make sharp concessions. The losses ranged from 1 to over 2 per cent. Government bonds unchanged; other bonds irregular.

WOMAN STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 3.—Mrs. George Walls of Groveland is paralyzed as the result of a bolt of lightning which struck her residence, passing through the ceiling, down the stove and entering the floor six inches from where she stood. The heel of one shoe was torn off and the side of her foot burned. The lightning accompanied a heavy hail storm.

PLACED ON TRIAL ON COTTON SCANDAL

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Edwin S. Holmes, Jr., formerly assistant statistician of the Agricultural Department, was to-day placed on trial in the criminal court. He was indicted in 1905, with Frederick A. Peckham and Moses Haas of New York, for conspiracy in the "cotton leak" scandal.

The indictment charges that the three men entered into a scheme to give advance information on cotton bulletins and divide the winnings.

SHOE MACHINE TRUST STOPS SALE OF GOODS

Orders Sent to Agents Forbid Them to Accept Orders on Machines in State.

BILL PENDING IN LONDON

According to circular letters being sent to its agents throughout the State, the United Shoe Machinery Company will not accept orders for the trust-leased shoe machines from this date, in consequence it is assumed, of the passage of the "shoe machinery bill" which became a law last week when Governor Guild signed the bill.

In the letter sent to one of its agents the shoe machinery company gives this order:

"From date, do not solicit, lease or accept orders for machines in Massachusetts. Strict attention to this order is requested."

BILL IN ENGLAND AIMED AT SHOE MACHINE COMPANY

LONDON, June 3.—After protracted hearing on the subject, the committee of the House of Commons has decided to report favorably a bill which is clearly aimed at the United Shoe Machinery Company of Boston.

The bill, which will be supported by the government, forbids as in restraint of trade the imposition of any restrictions not clearly granted by the terms of the patent itself. Violations will be punished by the cancellation of the patent itself. The manufacturers assert that the arbitrary terms that the company imposes in its leases puts its customers under far greater tribute than the patent rights justify.

WILL WIPE OUT WHITE PLAGUE IN 25 YEARS

OMAHA, June 3.—"In twenty-five years tuberculosis will be eliminated from the human race," declared Dr. Nicholas Senn, surgeon-general of Illinois, to-day. "The methods for the prevention of the disease, which have developed wonderfully in the last few years, lead me to believe that the outlook for the elimination of the plague is very hopeful. Those affected will be isolated, and if this is done, preventatives may be used until consumption will be a thing of the past.

"The great work to be done is in medicine, for surgery long ago has reached almost its limit of perfection. Simplification in surgery will develop, but I think no great discovery in that branch of the profession remains to be made. In fact, I think that the greatest triumphs of surgery have been attained, and to make them more accessible will be the work of the future.

"As the medical profession in late years has discovered the causes of the worst diseases, it will only be a question of time when preventatives will be generally used. The outlook, then, is that the human race will be better physically than it has ever been."

MANY FAMOUS HORSES TO RACE AT BROOKLINE

The lovers of thoroughbred racing in New England are assured of three days of the finest sport on June 13, 15 and 17, when the annual meeting of the Country Club of Brookline will take place. While many famous steeplechasers have been seen at Brookline, it is safe to say that never before have a finer lot been entered than are in this year.

Joseph Widener, J. W. Colt, Thomas Hitchcock, M. J. Daly, Dion Kerr, W. C. Hayes, F. Ambrose Clark, H. L. and A. G. Schwartz, Jr., J. Watson Webb, "Mr. Chetland" and a score of other equally well-known owners of thoroughbreds have made nominations for the events. Horses whose names are heard daily where the sport is followed closely are in, and New England followers of the sport will not only have an opportunity to see thoroughbred racing but thoroughbred racing of the very first quality.

MANY INJURED BY FALLING ELEVATOR

AKRON, Ohio, June 3.—An elevator at the plant of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, in East Akron, fell two stories to-day, seriously injuring seven men and hurting others. The car was loaded with workmen going to their department.

TEACHER-FORGER SOCIAL FAVORITE

Andrews that his father's name was B. P. Knowles, who lives in South Montville, Me. Mr. Knowles has been notified of the suicide of the man who claims to be his son, but no reply has been received up to to-day from Maine, adding to the mystery that surrounds the tragedy.

Brooks was an auto enthusiast, and owned three autos at various times. That he was a stock speculator is known, and that he suffered heavy losses is believed. As a forger of checks, he was an expert, it is declared to-day by the authorities.

Forged Many Names.

The men whose names were forged at different times are: Alphonse T. Merrill, chairman of the Topsfield school committee; J. B. Poor, grocer; B. P. Edwards, druggist; J. L. Fiske, barber; O. E. Lake, proprietor of the local variety store, and I. M. Wodobury, a butcher. The Woodbury, Poor and Edwards notes were for $50, and the Merrill note for $200.

"We heard that he had committed forgery and had changed his name as a result," said Mr. Merrill to-day. "I don't know myself how the stories started, but we felt they ought to be investigated. He said he had graduated from Yale, and so I wrote there. They replied that no one of the name of Edric Davis Brooks had ever graduated from that university.

Legally Changed Name.

I wrote to South Montville, Me., where he said he had lived. From there came word that no such person had ever lived there. Then we called Brooks before the school committee. He explained that his name was really James S. Garvin, and that under that name he graduated from Yale; afterwards, he said, he went in business with a man in Belfast, Me., and that this man had forged a signiture.

"To avoid the disgrace of his partner's act following him through life, on the advice of an aunt who had considerable property and had helped him with his education, he legally changed his name in the Belfast courts to Edric Davis Brooks, after his aunt.

"He had made such an excellent record in our high school and seemed such a good teacher we hesitated to lose him, and so we decided to let the incident pass."

On Brooks' dead body was found only $2. It is known that he bought an automobile only a few days ago, paying for it with worthless notes. Yet he explained to his friends in Topsfield that he had recently been left a fortune by a deceased rich aunt. He told one man that the estate he handled was worth $50,000.

Lavish with Money.

A social favorite in church, society and home, Brooks made himself one of the most popular men in town. He was welcome everywhere. At parties and church socials he was the life of the evening. He was an accomplished musician, and a good conversationalist. Always lavish with money, he took delight in giving presents to the High School boys whom he particularly favored. Raymond Roberts and Chester Andrews he showered presents upon.

The body of the suicide is lying at the home of Mrs. Andrews to-day, still awaiting a claimant. If no one appears it will be buried at the expense of the family.

BECAME CRAZED AFTER SEEING 4 CHUMS DROWN

NEW HAVEN, Ct., June 3.—Edward Auth of No. 132 Saratoga avenue, Brooklyn, the sole survivor of a party of five who started from Bridgeport for New York yesterday in the auxiliary sloop Belle capsized in the Sound off Norwalk, was resting comfortably at the New Haven Hospital this morning.

Auth had regained his mental equilibrium this morning, though at times he would burst into tears as a result of his terrible experience.

No further trace of the overturned sloop or the bodies of Jacob Auth, August Jaeger, Otto Fleger of Brooklyn and George Glazer of Manhattan, who were drowned, had been reported this morning.

Captain Michael McGoldrick of the tug Wyoming of the Lehigh Navigation Company, who picked Auth up, says he was a raving maniac after having seen his four companions washed from the wreck, one by one.

ARREST 72 ON POOL ROOM SHIP

CHICAGO, June 3.—Following the first use of the pool room ship City of Traverse since the installation of the new city administration, seventy-two men were arrested when the ship landed its passengers at the South Chicago Pier. They were charged with vagrancy under a new law allowing the arrest of any person who cannot show an honest means of support.

The ship's owners had been warned that if any pools on horse races were sold on the boat all those betting on the wireless telegraph returns would be arrested on reaching shore.

The ship operates outside the State limits and the owners contend the State and city officers have no control.

CHILD OF FIVE KILLS MOTHER

YORK, Pa., June 3.—"Mamma, look out, or I'll shoot you," said five-year-old Evert Doll to-day, as he pulled the trigger of a gun and shot his mother in the head, killing her instantly.

The child is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doll of Airville. He had often seen his father load the gun, which stood in a corner of the room, but no one ever thought it possible that he would attempt to handle the deadly weapon.

To-day while the mother was out in the yard the boy took the gun, broke it apart and slipped into it a shell which he had taken from a stand nearby. As his mother entered he killed her.

6,000 CHILDREN IN TEMPERANCE LEAGUE PARADE

Major John J. Leonard of the Eighth Massachusetts Regiment has been chosen chief marshal of the parade of the Holy Family Temperance League on Sunday, June 23, when children representing every Sunday School in the various Catholic Churches, together with the societies connected with the Boston Catholic Total Abstinence Union, making in all some 6,000 persons, will march. They will go to the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, where benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will be held, at which Archbishop O'Connell will officiate. The administering of the pledge of total abstinence will be a feature.

In order that there may be uniformity, the men will appear with dark clothing, black derby hat, white vest, black string tie and white gloves. The Holy Family Temperance League badge will be the only ornament of decoration.

DANISH ACTRESS SHOT BY HUSBAND

COPENHAGEN, June 3.—Cerda Krum Nathansen, the celebrated Danish actress, was shot and mortally wounded by her husband at the Hotel Aalborg, Jutland. The husband, after shooting his wife, committed suicide. Jealousy was the cause of the tragedy.

THREE DEAD, 4 MISSING IN TENEMENT FIRE

Newark Turn Hall and Three Dwelling Houses Destroyed by Flames.

FEAR MORE HAVE PERISHED

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Three persons are dead, four are missing, and it is likely there are other bodies in the ruins of Turn Hall, in Newark, and three tenement houses adjoining, which were destroyed by fire to-day just before dawn.

The known dead:

HONEKE, JOSEPH, janitor of the hall.

HONEKE, SARAH, wife of Joseph.

HONEKE, MARY, daughter of the janitor and his wife.

How the fire started has not been determined. When it was discovered it was shooting from the windows and roof of the building, and the upper floors were a mass of flames. The janitor and his family lived on one of the upper floors. They were seen at the window of their apartments when the flames were all about them.

The next minute they disappeared, and a moment later the floors of the burning building went down with a crash.

The flames then leaped to the tenements on either side of the burning hall and to a tenement house in the rear. The wind was blowing a gale. First it came from one direction and then from the other and it looked as though the entire block would be destroyed.

Three alarms were sent in, calling all the fighting apparatus in Newark. The firemen found the fire escapes of the tenements gorged with screaming men, women and children. Scaling ladders were put up and the frightened families brought down to safety.

Several of the firemen and policemen were overcome in this work of rescue. The fire burned itself out after three hours, and efforts were made to search the smoking ruins for the four persons who are supposed to have lost their lives beside the janitor, his wife and child.

ALL CANADA STIRRED BY SCANDAL SUIT

FREDERICTON, N. B., June 3.—Canada is stirred up over revelations in the libel suit brought by the Hon. Henry R. Emmerson, former Minister of Railways in the Laurier Cabinet, against the publisher of the Fredericton Gleaner, on account of a story about the former Cabinet Ministe's alleged ejection fom St. Lawence Hall in Monteal with two women.

Mr. Emmerson on the stand has denied the charges and claimed that he simply expressed sympathy with the women, Mrs. George Allan, wife of an official of the Intercolonial Railway, and Mrs. Beuthner, when they told him they had been insulted in St. Lawrence Hall.

To-day comes the announcement that John Lloyd, for thirty-six years night clerk in St. Lawrence Hall, who testified last week that he instructed the night porter to request Mr. Emmerson, Mrs. Allan and Mrs. Beuthner to make less noise or leave the hotel, has been dismissed from hotel service.

EXCURSIONISTS TIED UP BY BIG STORM

PROVIDENCE, June 3.—Steamer New Shore of the Block Island and Providence line, with fifty excursionists aboard, is tied up at her dock at Block Island to-day, waiting for the huge seas to recede and permit her safe return home.

She brought her excursionists here yesterday and was to have returned early last evening, but the fierce gale which swept the coast made it impossible to proceed. Friends of the passengers besieged the office of the steamship company last night, fearful lest some misfortune had fallen to the steamer.

MARRIAGE LAW IS CHANGED IN FRANCE

PARIS, June 3.—The Chamber of Deputies has voted a bill permitting marriage between brothers and sisters-in-law and modifying to ten months the limit of time within which divorced persons may not remarry.

WELCOMING SON'S BRIDE, DRAPERS BLESS ELOPERS

Cupid Conquers Lieutenant Governor and Wins Parental Forgiveness for Son and Actress.

THAT real love will have its way once it is enkindled in the hearts of man and maid, that social boundaries are nothing to it, that separations, temporary attachments and even the sternest parental opposition are as nothing, the romantic attachment of B. H. Bristow Draper, son of the Lieutenant-Governor of Massachusetts and Queenie Sanford, winsome chorus girl and actress, abundantly prove.

Young Draper and Miss Sanford became husband and wife in spite of more obstacles than are thrown in the way of most young people. And now the long-with held paternal blessing awaits the man and the maid, and the latch string hangs out at the Hopedale home.

CHAPTER I.

When Love Dawned

Bristow Draper, a schoolboy attending St. Mark's School, saw little Queenie Sanford in "The Belle of New York." He was one of thousands whom the dainty actress delighted with her grace, expression and limpid voice.

"What a little marvel she is," he stoutly said to his fellows, and they laughed, but that never changed the mind of the son of the wealthy Hopedale manufacturer one jot.

The little mischievous God of Love had shot one arrow.

CHAPTER II.

Another Arrow.

Three years sped by. They were years of success and triumph to pretty Queenie Sanford. She had attracted the approving eyes of Charles Frohman and the eyes and admiration of hundreds of thousands who saw her in many plays and her name among the headlines.

"Mr. Draper of Hopedale, Miss Sanford," thoughtlessly said a friend introducing the talented actress, and the eighteen-year-old son of the magnate of Hopedale.

Then followed a ceaseless round of after theatre parties, long drives, suppers and, finally, love—for Cupid shot another arrow.

CHAPTER III.

Everyday Life.

Still higher on the ladder of success climbed the girl. The boy remained at his studies after a trip in Europe with his parents, who had heard of his liking for the chorus star.

A year at Phillips-Exeter Academy, a year in Harvard was followed by toil in his father's great factory that he might master business. Then, so perfectly proper and satisfying to two blue-blooded Massachusetts families, the announcement of the engagement of Bristow Draper and Miss Alice Larjorie Ray was made.

"It's just what should be," said the friends on both sides.

CHAPTER IV.

Love Thwarted Propriety.

Queenie Sanford's company came to Boston, and Bristow Draper, steeled in his resolution to please his father and the proprieties, attended one performance.

"Only one; she's dead to me," he said to himself.

"Alice Marjorie Ray has jilted Bristow Draper," whispered posted society folk to one another. "They do say that he's head over heels in love with that chorus girl again.

CHAPTER V.

Just as It Should End.

A secret wedding at The Little Church Around the Corner, and Bristow Draper announced to his father and the world that Queenie Sanford was his wife.

To try his son, perhaps a little piqued, the stern father pretended to be angry, and the young man and the maid were refused the customary blessing.

"We'll make our way alone and together, then," they said, so to far Seattle they journeyed and tried to forget their resentment against father and friends.

Pluck told. Eben S. Draper never forgot. Love stood the test.

"Come home and be blessed," is the substance of a message from Hopedale to Seattle.

OCEANIC ON FIRE AT DOCK; MAY NOT SAIL

Big White Star Liner Damaged to Extent of $10,000 by Dangerous Blaze.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 3.—A stubborn fire in the steerage of the White Star liner Oceanic was discovered early to-day as she lay at her dock at the foot of West Eleventh street.

Officers and crew were unable to cope with it, and the fire department was called. The fire may result in the cancelling of the Oceanic's sailing date on Wednesday.

Pine tables are used in the steerage as dining tables at sea. Mattresses which had been cleaned were piled one on top of another on these tables and burned as cotton bales would. They made a dense smoke, and so filled the steerage compartment that it was impossible for the firemen to enter that part of the ship.

For this reason it was almost impossible to play water directly on the burning bedding. The firemen had to content themselves with sending great streams into the compartment with the hope that it would reach the burning material and quench the flames.

It is understood that the loss amounts to about $10,000.

COLD SEASON KILLS GROUSE

MONTPELIER, Vt., June 3.—Unless warm dry weather comes immediately the grouse shooting in Vermont next Fall will be the poorest in years. Already the cold and wet Spring months have done considerable damage.

The birds are now beginning to nest and within the next fortnight thousands of fledglings will peck their way through their shells to perish among the chilled and wet leaves. Within forty-eight hours after hatching, and more often within ten hours, the young leave the nests and hide in the undergrowth. They are exceedingly frail little fellows and cold takes them off rapidly.

DIPHTHERIA IN WORCESTER

Special to the Boston American.

WORCESTER, June 3.—Within eleven months 100 cases of diphtheria here have proved fatal and still the disease is raging.

It is charged that quarantine regulations are not enforced rigidly. The executive officer of the Board of Health says that it is not right to cut wage earners off from the only means of support of stricken families.

The City Council has asked the Board of Health why the diptheria epidemic is not being stamped out. Four new cases have been reported.

MAYOR WINS STOOLS FOR WOMEN CLERKS

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., June 3.—Mayor Willard C. Fisher, professor of economics at Wesleyan University, has championed the cause of the women clerks in this city and has decided to enforce the State law which requires employers to furnish them with stools when they are not waiting on customers. The Mayor on Saturday visited all the stores and questioned girl clerks.

FEAR DRIVES VANDERBILT'S PARTY ASHORE

Millionaire's Yacht, in Grip of Fierce Storm, Runs for Shelter.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 3.—Fearing to trust themselves to further buffetings of the storm that swept the Sound, Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., with Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hazard Perry Belmont and a party of friends, steamed up Narragansett Bay from Newport late yesterday afternoon in Mr. Vanderbilt's big turbine steam yacht Tarantula, and left early in the evening for New York by rail from this city.

The Tarantula, a strong and speedy yacht, resembling a torpedo boat in construction and driven by powerful engines, made the run from New York to Newport on Saturday with the Vanderbilts, Belmonts and other well-known New York and Newport society people, intending to remain over night at Newport and return yesterday.

The nasty weather encountered coming up the Sound and the shaking up that the party received so alarmed the women of the party that after waiting yesterday until it became evident that there was no prospect of a lull in the storm, it was decided to end the water trip at Newport.

WOMAN ROBBER HUNTED HERE

LEWISTON, Me., June 3.—Peter Petkos left last night for Boston, where he expects to locate, with the help of the police, the woman who, a few weeks ago, robbed him of $3,200, the life savings of himself and family. The strange woman, on pretense of wishing to befriend the family, gained admission to the house and learned where the money was kept. A few days later both woman and money disappeared. From evidence obtained from the Boston police, it is believed the woman is in that city.

BIG GUNS MARK ITALIAN FETE

Forty-two guns, 21 from the shore battery at the navy yard alternating at minute intervals with 21 from the Italian cruiser Etruria of the Duke d'Abruzzi's squadron, at noon yesterday, a reception on board the Etruria and decorations on board all the battleships at the navy yard, marked the first celebration in Boston of "Statuta," and anniversary of the day when Garibaldi saw his highest aspiration realized by the granting of the Italian constitution, June 2, 1848.

Governor Guild will entertain Commander Pericoli and the officers of the Etruria, with Baron Tosti, at the Puritan Club this evening, and at noon to-day Mayor Fitzgerald tenders them luncheon at Young's Hotel.

LUMBERMEN BATTLE FOR LIFE IN RIVER

OLDTOWN, Me., June 3.—While out in their canoe on the Penobscot River, two lumbermen, Frank Farmer and John L. Clinton, had a narrow escape from drowning. Clinton upset the canoe. Both were thrown into the water and carried to the ripples, where a battle for life occurred. Clinton had about succumbed when a log released from the dam up the river came floating by. He reached for it and secured it.

BEAUTY TEST FOR TEACHERS

NEW HAVEN, June 3.—"A good form, pretty face and a tailor-made gown count more than mental equipment in the selection and promotion of the teachers of New Haven," says Professor William Hackett, president of the New Haven Teachers' League. "Physical appearances count more in this country in providing a woman teacher with a good position than do many mental qualifications. If the teacher is good looking she has a better chance than her less favored sisters, and this regardless of mental equipment."

"Do you accuse the members of the Board of Education of showing such favoritism?"

"No, but the superintendent of schools or his advisors are impressed by such considerations. Handsome face and figure in a tailor-made gown is "more impressive than a mentality of wide scope, clear judgment and profound wisdom."

KUROKI TIPS BELLBOYS $500

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, June 3.—General Baron Kuroki distributed between $400 and $500 in gratuities at the Auditorium Annex before his departure last night for the West. He had been at the hotel a week with his staff.

Some secrecy was maintained by the management as to whom the money went and how much it was, it being feared that the porters, chambermaids and bellboys would be deluged with all sorts of get-rich-quick propositions.

Manager Kennedy said General Kuroki was exceedingly liberal.

COREY'S BRIDE BUYING GOWNS

PARIS, June 3.—To allow the former stage beauty, Mabelle Gilman, an opportunity to try on some beautiful new gowns, being built by her fashionable tailor in Rue de la Paix, William Ellis Corey and his wife were in Paris two or three times last week, having motored in from Chateau Villegenis, where they are passing their honeymoon.

Mr. Corey sat in the automobile outside the dressmaker's, muffled up in a great coat and with goggles on, and would have been unrecognizable had he not taken off the latter to wipe his spectacles with his handkerchief.

The report is gaining currency here that Mr. Corey is not likely to return to America for some time, and that the news that his resignation of the presidency of the United States Steel Corporation has been accepted may be received any day.

SAILOR BLOWN AWAY BY GALE

Special to the Boston American.

PROVIDENCE, June 3.—Swept by a gale which blew at the rate of fifty miles an hour, John Lewin, a fisherman on the mackerel sloop Lewey Wharen, was blown into the sea and perished. He had gone on deck to fix the nets. The accident occurred about ten miles southeast of Block Island. Lewin was formerly a member of the life-saving crew at Provincetown, and was about forty years old. The fishing sloop put in at Block Island to-day with her flag at half mast.

CROKER DENIES HE ASPIRES TO PARLIAMENT

LONDON, June 3.—Reports that he is to re-enter politics and will seek election to the House of Commons to aid the Irish cause are declared to be without foundation by Richard Croker, former leader of Tammany Hall. In a message to a friend here regarding the rumors, Mr. Croker says:

"There is no foundation at all for the report. I have no intention to ever enter politics."

Mr. Croker, ever since his residence in Ireland, has given his influence and his money to help the Irish cause. He occupied a prominent place on the platform at the recent Irish convention. It is believed these facts have been used by Irish workers to create an impression that Croker is anxious to go to Parliament.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 3.—One man was instantly killed and a score were injured in the wrecking of east bound passenger train No. 6, two miles west of Lozier, a small station on the Southern Pacific.

VATICAN TO SUE FRENCH NATION

Rome, June 3.—Vatican authorities are retaliating against the recent action of the French Government, which appointed a special administrator to supervise the disbursement of the funds belonging to the French establishments in this city. A law suit will probably be instituted in the Italian courts against the French Government for the restitution to the Vatican administration of at least a part of the property, which is worth several million dollars.

Mgr. Della Chiesa, the assistant of the Secretary of State, has been charged directly by the Pope to secure restitution of some of the property left by French citizens to the Church of Saint Louis.

COUNSEL READY TO OPEN GREAT HAYWOOD TRIAL

Defendant Recovers from Illness, and Jury May Be Filled Before Night.

BOISE, Idaho, June 3.—It was stated to-day that W. D. Haywood, charged with complicity in the murder of former Governor Steunenberg, had recovered sufficiently from the attack of acute indigestion which resulted in the postponement of the trial Saturday, to permit of his appearance in court to-day.

Judge Fremont Wood is firm in his determination to permit no further delay that can possibly be avoided in completing the jury, and it is not impossible that James H. Hawley will at least begin his opening speech for the prosecution before court adjourns for the day. Mr. Hawley is without question the best qualified criminal lawyer in this State and in addition to knowing the laws of Idaho as though he had written them, he is thoroughly acquainted with the mining situation and history of the State and has a personal acquaintance with practically every man who has been called to show cause why he should not serve on the jury.

In his personal acquaintance with witnesses and jurymen, the prosecution will have a great advantage over the defence. Both Senator Borah and Mr. Hawley are old residents of Idaho and have been active in the politics of the State.

The principal counsel for the defence, Clarence S. Darrow, of Chicago, and E. F. Richardson, of Denver, while able lawyers, are both strangers in Idaho. Associated with them are former Congressman Wilson and Lawyers Whitsel and Fred Miller, local men, thoroughly acquainted with the situation. They may be able to equalize the disadvantages under which the principal counsel for the defence are laboring.

It is now said by counsel for the prosecution that it will take them at least three weeks to present their case to the jury. The defence will take at least as long, and with the rebuttal and sur-rebuttal it is not regarded as likely that the case will go to the jury much before the first part of August.

TRUST PLANS LEGALITY TEST OF SHOE BILL

Machinery Company to Fight in Court if State Is Not "Left to Its Fate."

If the Shoe Machinery Company concludes not to abandon Massachusetts to her fate, it was said to-day, the Trust will shortly go about a test of the constitutionality of the law passed last week prohibiting the leasing of machinery with the provision that the lessee must not use the machinery of other makers.

The law goes into effect July 1. On and after that date the making of a lease containing the exclusive feature complained of will lay the company open to a fine not exceeding $5,000.

If a test of the law is decided upon, the United will make one lease of the kind declared illegal and arrange for a friendly suit to determine the constitutionality of the law. Both the majority and minority of the Massachusetts Supreme Court declaring the bill not in conflict with the Constitution of the Commonwealth made it plain that certain questions under the proposed law were questions arising under the national Constitution, and properly decidable only by the United States Supreme Court.

Seek "Friendly" States.

The threat that the United Shoe Machinery Company might leave Massachusetts, and might not take the time to go up to the nation's highest tribunal, was made by an "important stockholder," through Clarence W. Barron's Boston News Bureau.

Mr. Stockholder truly pointed out that the law does not affect the thousands of leases now in operation in Massachusetts, on seventeen-year terms, and cannot affect leases made outside of Massachusetts for machinery to be used out of the State. Therefore, he said, the new shoe shops of the future in New England will be built in New Hampshire, Maine and other "friendly" States. New Hampshire rather appeals to the Shoe Machinery Trust. They have biennial sessions of the Legislature up there. The late New Hampshire Senate distinguished itself above all others in New England when, one day last Winter, it pulled off a session behind closed doors, excluding even the lone reporter.

Says Shoe Business Will Boom.

R. H. Long of South Framingham ridicules the suggestion that the shoe industry of Massachusetts must go to smash simply because the Machinery Trust will be compelled to meet open competition in the open market.

"The shoe business will be bigger and better than ever," says Mr. Long. "When, if ever, did free and open competition ruin a great industry."

FLYWHEEL BURSTS; KILLS ENGINEER

PITTSBURG, June 3.—Bursting like a shell, the monster flywheel of an engine coupled to a lighting generator at the Creighton power plant of the Allegheny Lighting Company, killed the engineer and wrecked the building. An assistant was so badly scalded by steam that his recovery is doubtful. The dead man is Frank M. Geiger, engineer, thirty-five years old.

"GREEN GLOVE" MAN DEAD.

NEW YORK, June 3.—James Richmond Glenroy, a quaint vaudeville actor, and known best as "the man with the green gloves," died from pneumonia Saturday in his home in Borough Park. He was nearly sixty years old, and had been on the variety stage since boyhood.

ROCKEFELLER HEARS PASTOR SCORE RICHES

"Man Shall Not Live by Stocks and Bonds Alone," Rev. Aked Thunders at Oil King.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Pointing out the rewards of those who are, as foretold in Matthew, to "Sit on thrones judging generations and ages that are yet to come," the Rev. C. F. Aked, in the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, yesterday, declared that "Man shall not live by stocks and bonds alone."

John D. Rockefeller attended the service; so did John R. Hegeman, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, with Mrs. Hegeman.

Dr. Aked told of Catherine Preshkovskey, a Russian girl of noble parentage, who started a school for children in Russia a few years ago and was put in prison, kept there for two years, tried and sent to Siberia to serve four years of hard labor and remain there for the remainder of her life. This girl managed to escape from the tortures of her place of exile, only to be recaptured and sentenced to serve six years of hard labor and live a life of torment in Siberia.

"This same Catherine Preshkovskey," said Dr. Aked, "is now in this country preaching liberty for the Russians. The standard of her self-sacrificing life has been raised and raised and by woman.

"Don't be afraid of comparing small things with great. Be proud of doing it, for we are one with them. We are one with the Russians, fighting for liberty; one with the men who stormed the Bastile; one with your own Abolitionists, with Loyd Garrison, Wendell Phillips, and one with John Brown, whose soul goes marching on. We are one with the lightbringers of every nation. We are one with him who died on a cross."

Four Submarines in Strangest Race Ever Run to Dive in Depths of Ocean for $3,000,000 Prize

SENSATIONAL CONTEST ENDS NAVAL TESTS

Thrilling Under-Sea Race Off Newport, R. I., to Prove Which Boat of Four Is Fittest.

UNIQUE TRIAL PLANNED

STRANGER than the wildest flight of romance that ever came from the pen of Jules Verne, outshadowing his tales of mystic travelers who sped over the bottom of the sea in ships of marvelous flight, is the race soon to be run off Newport, R. I., when four submarine boats, the Octopus, Cuttlefish, Tarantula and Viper are to dive deep down in ocean depths in a speed contest with a $3,000,000 prize at stake.

Nothing like it has ever been planned in this country. It will follow as the sensational finale to the tests the government has been conducting to try the possibilities that lie in under the sea warfare. The results of the trials may revolutionize the navies of the world.

The grand prize is not a trophy for the victor, but it represents the amount of money that the United States is to expend in building submarines of the type that shall win this coming contest, showing that for submarine warfare they are the best possible kind of boat.

Tests have narrowed down the general kind of submarine that the government wants. The Octopus, in its recent contest off Newport with the Lake, demonstrated the superiority of the type of boat it represents.

Four Fore River Boats.

Now, the Octopus, Cuttlefish, Tarantula and Viper, submarnes, all built at the Fore River Ship Building Company's, at Quincy, are in general much alike, but they differ radically in certain important principles and as the general type such as the Fore River boats represent is desired it is necessary to see which one of the four is the exact kind that is the best for all around underwater warfare.

Tests of many kinds are to be included in the coming races for the $3,000,000 contract, and Captain Richardson Glover of the United States Navy is to go to Newport to try out the four submarines in the waters of Narragansett Bay and at sea. This is to be done early in June.

This is to be called a sea test and the little vessels are to go to sea and remain there four days, during which time they are to change their batteries.

Contest Under the Sea.

There will be long races at full power under the water between the strange little craft, firing off their torpedoes while surging along at full speed far below the waves, a three-hour race awash and diving at full speed. Another of the tests will be for each vessel to fire off all her torpedoes at a target and then reload while turning.

The greatest interest is felt in Boston, for the four submarines built at Quincy were constructed under the direction of the Electric Boat Company, a Massachusetts concern. Lieutenant A. Y. Spear was in personal charge of the construction of the queer craft, and it was his wife who christened one of them when the vessel was launched.

The Octopus, Cuttlefish, Tarantula and Viper are all at the Fore River yards now, where everything on them is being thoroughly overhauled and all of their machinery placed in perfect condition for the coming tests. They will go to Newport early next week.

Submarines at full speed under water near Newport, R. I., in strangest contest ever held. Officers of the U. S. Navy will pass upon the merits of each vessel and award $3,000,000 contract to company whose proves superior.

BOYNTON ALL READY TO BUILD BICYCLE R. R.

Declaring that if the pending charter is permitted by the Senate when it shall come before them to-day or to-morrow, fifty miles of his bicycle railroad will be constructed as quickly as possible and the advantages of his system fully demonstrated to the world, Eben Moody Boynton, the inventor of this method of transportation by rail, to-day tells what he hoped to accomplish for humanity and for the business world.

"The merits of the single-rail railway have been amply demonstrated," he says. "A tenfold increase in the capacity of existing standard gauge railroads has been demonstrated by nearly 100,000 trains running upon a single rail of existing roads.

"The single rail railway has proved its carrying capacity of ten-fold increase, its absolute safety and its great saving in operation.

"I sincerely hope to see the New Haven and all other railroads using my system, which has been demonstrated as applicable, without any interference with existing traffic during the course of its erection.

"The late Jay Gould and Russell Sage, after testing for two years thousands of trains on the Sea Beach & Brighton road, as certified by their chief engineer of the Manhattan and Mr. Ballston of the Kings County Elevated, by their Pacific engineers and hundreds of others, decided to recommend the equipment of the Manhattan, expecting the Union Pacific to follow, and the world to adopt it.

"Mr. Gould told me that he was satisfied that a four-fold saving was to occur, that the speed and the enlarged capacity from cars of double depth and four-fold lightness would solve the congestion in New York and increase the traffic of the world many times. His sudden death, I think, prevented the universal adoption of my system years ago.

"Now the matter rests with the Senate of Massachusetts to renew my charter, make it good and make possible the demonstration to this generation of the wonderful practicable possibilities of my system."

58-HOUR WEEK MEANS LESS PAY

NASHUA, N. H., June 3.—The new fifty-eight hour a week law goes into effect in New Hampshire to-day. There is much dissatisfaction in the shoe factories among the men. Their pay will be reduced to correspond to the reduced time. The textile employes do not feel the reduction, as an increase of five per cent. goes into affect at the same time.

RECTOR TELLS WOMEN TO WEAR HATS IN CHURCH

Believes It Is Undignified for Them to Remove Headgear at Services.

Ladies—you should send the Rev. Ernest J. Dennen of Lynn a bouquet.

He says you may wear your lingerie hats—your fine ostrich plumes—your $500 "creations," at services in his church. Yes, he even goes further than that. He says you MUST wear them.

There is a minister after your own heart! Imagine being told that you MUST do the very thing you want to do! He says that it is undignified for a woman to remove her hat at church. And no woman wishes to be undignified, especially at church.

Men Must Sit Bare-Headed.

But the men—they must take off their $2 hats, sit in the draught with bared heads, many of them with bare-footed heads, too, and be dignified. It is dignified for them to take off their hats. They would be put out on the sidewalk if they kept them on, but with the women it is different.

But then the men do not need to see the preacher preaching. They can hear him, and that is enough. And the fact that they take off their hats leaves a clear field of vision for the ladies back of them to see the hats on the ladies in front of them. And what a pleasure that is!

Worth going to church for, isn't it?

The Rev. Mr. Dennen established himself firmly in the hearts of the women in his congregation yesterday when, through the medium of his church calendar, he declared that the growing custom of women in removing their headgear in public places should be stopped, as their is a lack of dignity about it.

Rector Sides With Women.

He thus takes sides with the women of his own church and also of the Washington Street Baptist Church at Lynn, who have objected to the order of the church authorities that they put their gorgeous and expansive head covering out of sight while in church.

Now there will be a great increase in the attendance of women at the St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, for there they are told that they must keep on their hats.

The question now is, what will the men do? Will they remain at home and learn all about Maud and Si, or go to church and sit with their eyes glued upon the "creation" in front of them, unable to see anything else?

Perhaps they will start a crusade—demand that they also shall wear their hats at church. Who knows?

"FIFTY MILES FROM BOSTON" IS COMING

Arrangements have been completed by which Boston will see the latest play by George M. Cohan, beginning June 17. The author of "Little Johnny Jones," "George Washington, Jr.," and other equally popular musical comedies, has hit another bull's eye this Spring in a new funmaker which has just been completed and entitled "Fifty Miles from Boston." It is a Massachusetts satire, something after the vein of "Forty Five Minutes From Broadway." It will come to the Colonial after its run in Chicago.

BIG ENTRY LIST FOR LONG ENDURANCE RUN

Twenty-five Autoists to Go From New York to Albany on Thursday.

BY J. C. KERRISON.

What will probably be one of the best endurance runs of the season will take place on Thursday, when the New York Motor Club's 200-mile test from New York to Albany, by way of the Berkshire Hills, will be held. Nearly twenty-five entries have been received, and it is thought that at least thirty or forty cars will take part in the run. The entry list includes two Dragon cars, entered by John Kane Mills and A. L. Kull; a Berliet, entered by John J. Joyce, of the American Locomotive Company; a 30-h. p. Stearns, entered by W. I. Fickling; a 40-h. p. Aero car, entered by Arthur M. Robbins; a 16-h. p. Maxwell, entered by the Maxwell-Briscoe Motor Company; a 30-h. p. Haynes, entered by Charles B. Warren; a 35-h. p. Stoddard-Dayton, entered by the Atlantic Motor Car Company; a 24-h. p. Frayer-Miller, entered by H. H. Knepper; a 50-h. p. Pope-Toledo and a 30-h. p. Pope-Hartford, entered by A. G. Southworth, and a 60-h. p. Thomas Flyer, entered by Harry Haupt.

The entries will close to-day at 6 p. m. at the office of R. H. Johnston, No. 1402 Broadway, New York city.

The contest committee of the Automobile Club of America announced yesterday that fourteen entries have been made for the sealed bonnet event which the organization will conduct on June 19 to 22 inclusive. The members of the committee, assisted by the bureau of tours of the club, are now busy surveying and preparing road directions for the four different routes of 150 miles each which will be covered by the competing machines. These routes present varying conditions of road surface, both good, ordinary and poor, with a fair amount of hilly country to be traversed. The first day's run is up the Hudson River to Poughkeepsie and return; the second is up the Harlem Valley, through White Plains and Mt. Kisco to Pauling, and return; on the third day the route follows the shore road through Larchmont, Greenwich and Bridgeport to West Haven, and return; on the fourth day the route is a combination of the shore road as far as Bridgeport, then north to Danbury, returning to New York by the Harlem Valley through Pauling and White Plains, as on the second day. In planning the contest the committee has provided that the high-powered runabouts shall travel twenty-five miles more per day than the other cars in the contest. These cars will follow the same course as the other cars, but will have an additional run of twenty-five miles to cover. The entries received are one Berliet, one Stearns, two Loziers and three Locomobiles in Class A, which is for cars selling for more than $3,000. In Class B, for cars selling between $1,500 and less than $3,000, the entries are one Elmore, one Glide, three Locomobiles and a Stoddard-Dayton touring car and a Stoddard-Dayton runabout.

A good chauffeur may be distinguished from all others by the infrequency with which he has recourse to the pipe wrench and pliers for adjusting nuts and bolts. Nothing is easier than to grab up a young stillson wrench to turn an obstinate nut, while to nip on to the head of a screw with the pliers often is vastly simpler than to dig into the tool box for a screw driver, especially when the pliers are already in hand. But always the nut and screw head show afterward the marks of the wrong tool, and besides resist the application of the right tool later on.

George B. Van Cleve, the well-known advertising agent, who handles a number of automobile accounts, had his leg broken in three places last week through being thrown off a horse at French Lick Springs, Ind. It was at first thought that his leg would have to be amputated, but word was received yesterday that this would not be necessary, and he is now said to be on the road to recovery.

Speeding motorists, who in the majority of past performances have hailed from New York or Boston, are to go into the Leicester lockup hereafter and will secure bail the best way they can. This is the programme which Chief of Police James A. Quinn of Leicester has mapped out for the drivers of speedy automobiles that break the speed laws of the hill town of Leicester.

He figures that when this happens there will be motorists aplenty who will cuss the Worcester Automobile Club and its crusaders for kicking over the dough dish entirely.

It is this way. When Auto Jim has been arresting speedists many of them preferred to give a cash bond to appear at Central District Court, Worcester, to answer to the charge of violating the automobile law and go on their way. He has taken their cash to oblige them and that saved time and trouble for the automobilists.

"In every case where I have done this," said Auto Jim, "I have telephoned Mayor Raymond, clerk of the Worcester court, and asked if it was all right to do it. He has always said it was. I then proceeded to take the money from the motorists, allowing them to depart, and gave the money to Major Raymond when I went to town on the following day.

"Hereafter I will take no more bail money, and I will not go to Worcester in anyone's automobile that they may secure bail, and I will take no one's word for it over the telephone.

"When a man is arrested in Leicester for violating the State law he will go into the Leicester lockup, which is in the Town Hall. The cells were put there for lawbreakers, and that is where a bunch of automobilists will find themselves."

As there is no bail officer nearer than Worcester, where will the poor automobilist be if Quinn refuses to take bail or accompany him to Worcester?

The Worcester Automobile Club has again adopted the policy this year of taking care of the defence of cases in suburban towns and paying counsel fees wherever the defendant is unwilling to pay for a case of appeal. The attitude of the club is to appeal everything unless there is justification for the fine which may be imposed. This method last year succeeded in putting the automobile graft in Paxton out of the running complete—also slowed down the town of Gardner, and has pretty nearly squelched the hamlet of Holden.

GREEKS DEMAND COUNCIL RESIGN

LOWELL, June 3.—Two thousand Greek citizens attended a mass meeting yesterday and adopted resolutions calling upon the twenty-one members of the council that administers the affairs of the big Greek colony here, in which more than 6,000 mill operatives live, to resign within a week. George Couzonles is the president of the council.

The chief speaker antagonistic to the council was Dr. Demosthenes F. Genensler. It is alleged that the council represents but 300 of the Greeks and the administration is generally unsatisfactory to the rest of the Greeks. A new council will be elected.

UNCLE SAM'S JACKIE LUCKY WINNER OF $10

Marine on Board of Battleship Missouri Among Yesterday's "Snapshot Ten."

When the United States first-class battleship Missouri, now coaling at the Charlestown Navy Yard, weighs anchor to-morrow and sails back to Hampton Roads she will carry away $10 of snapshot money.

The $10 is in the right-hand trousers pocket of Frank E. McGinley of Norfolk, Va., marine aboard the Missouri.

Comes From Sunny South.

McGinley is a strapping young man with the soft Southern accent that comes only from below the Dixie line. He was photographed by the Snapshot Man of the BOSTON AMERICAN in the Public Gardens on the Snapshot Man's fifth trip on Memorial Day.

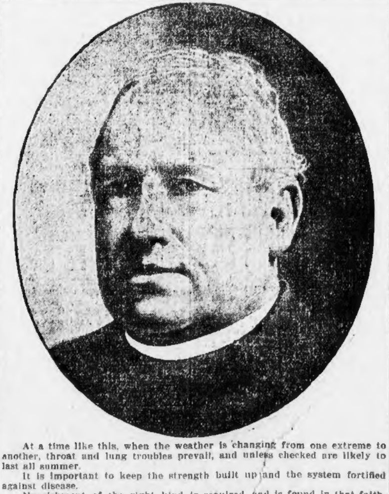
When the copies of the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN came aboard the Missouri yesterday McGinley's picture was quickly noted. One of the blue jackets ran to McGinley and said:

"Hey! Mac, your picture's in the snapshot group. Get ashore for your ten dollars."

Is Identified at Last.

The Missouri was coaling to-day, and it looked like a problem for McGinley, as no one is given shore leave at coaling time. But it happened that a marine was needed for an errand ashore, and McGinley got the detail. So he was able to drop into the BOSTON AMERICAN office, establish his identity and get his money.

Snapshot readers will be interested to know that No. 5 of "Snapshot Group No. 3," Sunday, May 19, has been identified at last. She is Mrs. W. M. T. McCafferty, clerk in the General Delivery at the Boston Postoffice. She lives at the Raleigh, No. 3 Englewood avenue, corner Beacon street, Brookline. This makes the second snapshot money to go into Boston Postoffice. Mail Collector Fred A. Hildreth was snapped on the Snapshot Man's second trip, the one he made along Tremont street. Hildreth's picture was printed Sunday, May 12.



At a time like this, when the weather is changing from one extreme to another, throat and lung troubles prevail, and unless checked are likely to last all summer.

It is important to keep the strength built up and the system fortified against disease.

Nourishment of the right kind is required, and is found in that faithful old remedy, Father John's Medicine, which has been doing such good work for more than fifty years in the cure of throat and lung troubles, such as colds, bronchitis, etc., and also in repairing the waste made by consumption.

Father John's Medicine is guaranteed, and does not contain alcohol or poisonous drugs.

ARMY OF BOYS TO MARCH ON MAYOR'S HOME

"Repair Our Baseball Ground," Demand 300 Savin Hill Lads of City Executive.

Inspired, perhaps, by the protest of the lads who appealed to the British commander of the redcoats in Boston against his soldiers' interference with their skating, three hundred Savin Hill boys threaten to march to Mayor Fitzgerald's home to demand that he repair their baseball ground on the beach.

They declare that the Mayor has not kept his promise to them to put the Savin Hill playground in condition for them to play ball. They are to hold an indignation meeting Wednesday night, June 12. If that is productive of no response, they propose to parade to his residence in Welles avenue and personally demand satisfaction of him.

During the Spring the boys toiled early and late filling up the gullies in the swamp ground, but the sea undid their work as fast as they completed it. They claim that one year ago the Mayor promised to help them get the ground in condition for a playground, but that, they say, is the last they have heard of it.

John Duggan, of No. 78 Pleasant street, said yesterday: "It is about time we boys got what the Mayor promised us a year ago last Fall. We have no place to play ball. We filled in the ditches on the so-called Savin Hill playground, but the tide spoiled our work every time. Something shall be done."

The Mayor, members of the Park Department Commission, Superintendent Pettigrew and Dorchester Members of the City Council are invited to attend the mass meeting.

The committee in charge is composed of Walter Fultz, John Murphy, James Clifford, Louis Chapelle, James Cronin, Joseph May, Ernest L. Brown, George Sullivan, Roy David, John Duggan, Ernest O'Dell, Timothy J. Callahan, Jr., Joseph Bryson and Arthur Cronin.

ORPHANS FIGHT FLAMES TO SAVE LUTHER HOME

Forty-four Inmates Removed Without Injury—Boys Join Bucket Brigade to Aid Firemen.

Twenty little boys, orphan inmates of the Martin Luther Home at West Roxbury, made heroes of themselves yesterday. They formed a bucket brigade and passed water along, doing their best to prevent the spread of flames which had been discovered in the basement of the building.

There were forty-four children in the building, twenty-two boys and twenty-two girls, and three of them were ill in bed. All were removed, and not one was injured.

The fire was discovered by Helena Hein, six years old, as the girls were playing on the lower floor. She notified Superintendent Frederick Wilhelm, who tried to telephone to the fire department, but the wires were out of order, and a boy was sent, on a bicycle, to the fire station, nearly two miles away.

It was a peculiar fire, in the fact that the greatest damage was done to the building adjoining the one in which it originated, and away from the spot where it is believed the fire started. The blaze worked its way to the other building under the flooring, and thence to the second story between the partitions. The loss is $5,000.

The home is conducted by the Lutheran churches of Boston. The place is a historic spot, being once known as the Brook farm, where many of New England's literary stars tried to found a colony along Utopian lines. It was later used as a poor farm for West Roxbury residents of Boston.

SAYS STOKES OWES HER CASH

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The suit of Mrs. Lucy M. Randolph against W. E. D. Stokes, the millionaire owner of the Ansonia, was to-day finally called for trial at Flushing, L. I.

Mrs. Randolph alleged that Mr. Stokes agreed to pay her $500 per month and $500 per month for the support of her five-year-old son. Mrs. Randolph was a reigning belle in Kentucky before her marriage. As Lucette Ryley she was considered one of its most beautiful girls. Soon after she came here there was a divorce between Mr. and Mrs. Stokes, and the latter became Mrs. Philip Lydig.

ENTERS FIGHT IN CAMBRIDGE AS A LEAGUER

George Marsh, Harvard Man and Journalist, First Candidate of New Party.

IS IN COUNCIL CONTEST

To-morrow the voters of Ward 9, Cambridge, will have a chance to vote for candidates for nominations for the Common Council, to be elected at the special election June 11.

Only two candidates are in the field, George Marsh and Philip Sharples. The former has the distinction of being the first man to aspire for a nomination on the Independence League ticket since the league has become a regular political party.

Mr. Sharples is the candidate for the non-partisans. The special election is for the purpose of filling the vacancy in the Common Council, caused by the death of Henry C. Stetson on April 16.

Is Harvard Graduate.

The primary will be held in Brattle Hall, Brattle square, from 12 noon till 9 in the evening.

Mr. Marsh is twenty-nine years old, a Harvard graduate and near kinsman of James McNeil Whistler, the famous artist. He believes he can win the election without becoming affiliated with either of the old-line parties. He said to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter at his home:

"I think the better class of voters, Democratic and Non-Partisan, are sick and disgusted with the old parties and the way they are being conducted. Modern conditions demand another party.

"All men who have no interest in either party except the welfare of their city must have realized by this time that it is time to turn to a third party. The change of worldly conditions has necessitated another party.

"I am strongly in favor of the Public Opinion bill which was recently turned down. It is a significant fact that every Republican representative from Cambridge voted against the bill."

Founder of Bryan Club.

Ward 9, the centre of the coming political fight, is the largest ward territorially in Cambridge. It is also the wealthiest, most aristocratic and conservative ward in the University City. In it is located the entire Harvard University and the Harvard settlement.

Mr. Marsh is one of the founders of the Bryan Club in Harvard. He is an intimate friend of the great Commoner and stumped with him in Mr. Bryan's private car throughout New England and New York in his last Presidential campaign.

Born in the University City, Mr. Marsh has always resided there, and is widely and popularly known. He received his early education in Cambridge's public schools, and prepared for Harvard in the Chauncy-Hall School of Boston. He entered Harvard in 1898.

With the completion of his college course with honor, Mr. Marsh founded and edited the Suburban, a breezy sheet, which won great success from the start. He later accepted the position of treasurer in the Publishers' Press, Vermont building, No. 10 Thacher street, Boston, where he is now engaged.

'SCHOOLS NEAR PARKS; PUPILS TO RIDE FREE'

—J. Randolph Coolidge.

Well-Known Architect to Lay Novel Plan Before School Board.

SMALL INCREASE IN COST

Mr. J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., a well-known architect, will lay before the Boston School Committee, at its meeting to-night, a plan by which new grammar schools will be located on the edges of some of the parks, Franklin Park, for instance, and the pupils taken to and from the schools in trolley cars at the expense of the city.

Mr. Coolidge believes that schools should be away from the crowded tenement districts, and his plan, which he has spent weeks in developing, has the support of such men as R. Clipston Sturgis, chairman of the Schoolhouse Commission, and Arthur A. Shurtleff, the landscape architect.

To Abolish Home Study

"The proposal is to establish on the edge of one or more of the city parks Grammar schoolhouses for the children who live in congested districts," said Mr. Coolidge today, "to take the pupils out to school in the morning and home again at night in street cars at the public expense, to keep the children in school and about the school all day for five days in the week, and to supervise their play and their study periods, so that on school days they shall no longer play in the streets nor study at home."

To show the financial advantages of his plan Mr. Coolidge points out that the least objectionable schoolhouse site that can be found in the West End is likely to cost $250,000. The Washington School, a thirty-room building, cost nearly $200,000.

Saving of Interest

"Two buildings are called for in the West End, each of which should be of twenty to twenty-four rooms, and would cost, equipped, $200,000 to $240,000," says Mr. Coolidge. "A building on the edge of a park could be of two stories, with lower stud, less expensive construction, and of less cost per pupil.

"Let us estimate the cost of transportation. An 18-room grammer school, containing 900 children, is in session about 185 days each year. Just for a guess, if the price of each car each day for the two runs were $1.25, the cost of the eighteen cars per year of 185 school days would be a little over $4,000. A charge for transportation of pupils should be looked upon as a substitute for interest payments upon the cost of a site.

Small Increase in Cost.

"With schoolhouses upon the edge of one of the parks, and the children transported to and fro at stated hours, a better administration of the schools would be secured by holding one session instead of two, and providing for two hours of play in the afternoon under adequate supervision.

"If the children are to play for two hours in the afternoon, away from their homes, the supervision of playmasters becomes indispensable, and the city would spend almost $5,000 to take care of 900 children. The sums of $4,000 for cars and $5,000 for supervision form an outlay that somewhat exceeds the saving in interest on the cost of a West End site. But there is not any appreciable loss, for at the present time the city cannot borrow money at 3 1-3 per cent."

BLIND STUDENTS CONTEST IN DUAL TRACK MEET

Same Programme to Be Run Off in Philadelphia and Baltimore; Records Then Telegraphed.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—What will probably be the first dual track athletic meet ever held between two schools for the blind will occur next Saturday, when the Overbrook School for the Blind will contest by telegraph with their rivals in Baltimore.

Although unable to see a step that they take, 100 blind boys in running suits at the two schools will fight for victory in the same heart-breaking struggles as the collegians do in the big intercollegiate meets.

The two schools will run off the same programme of events at the same time in each city. As soon as a Baltimore blind school athletic wins an event his record will be telegraphed to Overbrook and vice versa until the programme is finished. Then the school which has won the larger total of points will be declared the victor. Next year the two schools hope to meet each other on the same field.

On the list for next Saturday are the 100-yard dash, quarter mile, high jump, running and standing broad jump, putting the shot, throwing the hammer, discus, baseball and the hop, step and jump.

200 COOPERS STRIKE TO-DAY FOR INCREASE

Two hundred coopers, comprising all those employed in the twenty-seven breweries in Boston, are on strike to-day because of the refusal of the master brewers to live up to the agreement they are said to have made two weeks ago with the officers of Boston Coopers' Union No. 89.

The 1906 wage scale and working agreement became inoperative Saturday morning, and the 1907 agreement was then to go into effect.

Under the old agreement the men worked forty-eight hours a week for $21. This year they asked for a wage increase to fifty cents an hour. The master brewers offered the compromise proposition that the union accept instead the Saturday half-holiday, making the working week forty-four hours, the wages to remain at $21 per week.

This compromise offer the union accepted and it was to have gone into force last Saturday.

Late last week it became known to some of the officers of the union that some of the breweries would not adopt these conditions, as it was claimed that the master brewers who conferred with the committee from the union did not represent them.

MOBILIZE U. S. FLEET TO ACT AGAINST CHINA

LONDON, June 3.—It is reported here that the American Pacific squadron has been ordered to concentrate, in view of possible disturbances in the southern provinces of China.

The conditions at Chang Chow of which Amoy is the port, and at Siokhe, are unsettled. Many refugees continue to arrive at Amoy and numbers of missionaries of all denominations have reached Swatow.

Quiet is maintained there, though there is great anxiety as to the outcome of the revolt in the surrounding country. The rebel leader allows no looting and no foreigners have been molested as far as known. There is a small American mission at Chang Chow.

The Japanese cruiser Nanik arrived at Amoy yesterday.

Revolutionists in districts surrounding Swatow and Amoy are murdering the officials, burning official buildings and occupying towns and villages.

The taotai of Swatow is only reporting—losses suffered by the revolutionists, fearing that the news of their depredations would lead to foreign interference.

SILENT SMITH'S CASH TO MAKE NEW YORK GASP

Wife of Heir Plans Grand Entree Into Four Hundred's Ranks, with New Gowns.

SAILS AWAY TO-MORROW

By Boston American Leased Wire.

MASON CITY, Ia., June 3.—That New York's four hundred will sit up and take notice when the wife of the $10,000,000 heir of the late James Henry Smith appears there, is the confident prediction of no less a personage than the wife herself—Mrs. George Grant Mason, for several years a resident of this village.

As the wife of a division superintendent of the Milwaukee road, Mrs. Mason lived modestly and economically. But since the great inheritance Mrs. Mason has let it be known that any social or other ambitions which may be generated shall be gratified, if money will accomplish the purpose.

Mrs. Mason said to-day she knew what New Yorkers expected of the rich, and to that end she will prepare for the grand entree. She has laid in the following wardrobe for the occasion:

One gown of white embroidered batiste, elaborately trimmed with Irish lace; one white net gown elaborated with real lace; one white pongee suit, trimmed with lace; one black and white pongee suit; one suit of imported white embroidered pique. Besides these there are any number of lingerie waists. The bill is said to be more than $2,000.

ESCAPED LUNATIC TAKEN AT NASHUA

NASHUA, N. H., June 3.—Wilbert Gibson, who escaped from the asylum at Concord several months ago, and whose parents live here, is under arrest.

Captain Filmore J. Dubray and Patrolman Herbert E. Jeliey found him in a pine thicket off Ash street.

STABBED IN ROW OVER BEER.

SWAMPSCOTT, June 3.—In a fight with two fellow countrymen over a bottle of beer Dominic Cairbine of Swampscott was stabbed and may die. His assailants are not known.

BEAN POTS IN DISGRACE, GO OFF STICKERS

Feminine Protest Makes Faneuil Hall City Emblem for Old Home Week.

BAR BEAN POT PARTIES

Faneuil Hall landed yesterday on the Old Home Week stickers.

When the municipal committee on Old Home Week designed a striking advertisement for that occasion it produced a red sticker about one and three-quarter inches in diameter, with a baked bean pot pleasing full of beans for the central ornamentation. A pair of clasped hands met above the bean pot. The Old Home Week date, July 28 to August 3, 1907, was added and, in large type, was the injunction "Come back to Boston." The whole was an alluring invitation to Bostonians to come to the Old Home Week, shake hands across the time-honored baked bean pot and enjoy themselves generally.

But at a recent meeting of patriotic societies interested in Old Home Week, at which the attendance was composed mainly of women, indignant protest was made against the bean-pot insignia. It was represented that a historic edifice, Faneuil Hall particularly, would be more suitable on the sticker.

"Why," said one earnest woman, "people will think that all Boston cares about is baked beans."

So Thomas Anderson of Mayor Fitzgerald's Publicity Bureau allayed the bean-storm by promising some new stickers with Faneuil Hall on 'em. Then one could take one's choice, Faneuil Hall or bean pot.

Now the new Faneuil Hall stickers are out and a hot rivalry is on between the two emblems.

Where do you stand? Are you a "Bean-Potter" or a "Faneuil Haller?"

AUTOS MUST KEEP ON RIGHT SIDE

Automobilists who use the left hand roadway on Commonwealth avenue are to be prosecuted. Commissioner O'Meara has issued an order to this effect. The order regarding lights which shall make numbers on cars legible at a distance of sixty feet, will soon be rigidly enforced.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL. BOSTON, MASS. 96

The strike of the church organ workers, which has been in progress since May 25, is likely to come to an end soon through the efforts of A. E. Starr of Woodstock, Can., international organizer of the Piano, Organ and Musical Instrument Workers' Union, who is in this city. One hundred members of the union are engaged in the strike, and the demand a reduction of working hours from fifty-four to fifty hours a week.

One of the largest firms affected has already conceded. Several out-of-town factories are eager to secure some of the strikers, but as yet all have remained in the city, looking to an early adjustment of the grievance. A conference will probably be held to-day between the committee of employers and the strikers.

BOILERMAKERS END STRIKE.

The striking members of Boilermakers' Union No. 9, who have been on strike for nearly five weeks will return to work immediately, accepting the raise of wages of 7½ per cent. The original increase demanded was 15 per cent.

BREWERY WORKERS OBJECT.

The Boston members of the Brewery Workers' Union will not quietly abide by the decision of President Gompers, expelling the union from the A. F. of L., according to statements issued to-day. The brewery workers' union still have delegates in the Boston C. L. U., and will continue to have them, it is believed. Edmond F. Ward of Union No. 29 will return to-night from Cincinnati, where he has been attending the brewery workers' international board meeting. He represents three local brewery workers unions.

CONDEMN MELLEN.

The Boston Central Labor Union at yesterday's meeting condemned most vigorously the recent utterances of President Mellen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, and the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, such utterances are in line with the statements: 'That a man can live on bread and water and be happy,' 'The public be damned,' 'The mines are mine by Divine right,' 'I want to see a general strike.'

"Whereas, he shows a spirit inimical to the public weal and in line with the spirit of the infamous utterance of Louis XIV. of France, 'After me, the deluge.'

"Resolved, That in the interest of industrial peace we condemn all such utterances as tending to inflame the public mind and arouse class hatred."

Aroused by repeated charges of bribery of public officials, the meeting adopted a resolution which declared:

"That the continued charges of bribery preferred against our legislators weakens public confidence in our lawmakers, hence we call on all citizens, irrespective of party or affiliation, to elect men to office who, like Caesar's wife, are above suspicion."

BIG MEETING OF CAR MEN.

Caledonian Hall, at No. 45 Eliot street, was well filled last night, when William H. Ronemus, of Mena, Ark., and John J. Christenesen, of Memphis, Tenn., officers of the Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen, addressed a meeting of Bay State Lodge. Forty car men, who will form a lodge this week, were among the guests. It was announced that there are at present 442 lodges of the union in this country.

JOIN TEAMSTERS.

Forty new members were admitted to the Teamsters' Union at a big over-flow meeting held by Union 25 yesterday. Agent Tobin denied that another firm was to be included in the list of those directly affected by the strike to-day.

PARK EMPLOYES ELECT.

Park Department Assembly, K. of L., yesterday re-elected P. J. McCarthy master workman, John F. McKernan worthy foreman, Michael Hardigan recording secretary, Michael Marden financial secretary, Timothy Sullivan treasurer and Timothy Sullivan, Patrick McKenzie, John Haley, Bartholomew Ryan, James Broderick, John F. McKernan and P. J. McCarthy delegates to the District Assembly, 30, K. of L., incorporated.

$859 FOR McNEILL FUND.

The total amount received for the McNeil memorial monument was $859.55, according to a report of Secretary-Treasurer Driscoll of the State branch, A. F. of L., and of this sum $700 is expended for the monument, $27 for the foundation and small sums for several minor expenses connected with the monument's erection. The fund subscribed will prove ample for the expenses incurred, according to Mr. Driscoll's report.

LONGSHOREMEN ARBITRATE.

The Longshoremen's council was in session until nearly midnight last night discussing the proposed new agreements which, through committees appointed, will be submitted to-day to the officials of the White Star and Warren lines. The committee appointed to investigate the grievances against these two lines have been instructed to return a report by Saturday next.

PAINTERS GET INCREASE.

The Painters' District Council of Eastern Massachusetts at yesterday's meeting received the report of increases in wages to $3 in Medford, Somerville and Norwood.

2-HOUR MEALS FOR ACTRESSES

WORCESTER, June 3.—That actresses require two hours to eat a meal was the interesting fact brought out in the Superior Criminal Court, when Mrs. Alice Howard of New York, an actress, testified against Charles Partridge, who, on March 14, robbed her of money which was in her handbag as she stood in front of her hotel. Partridge was sent up for three months.

Mrs. Howard was at dinner in the Lincoln House.

"How long were you dining?" asked Attorney Thayer for the defendant.

"About two hours."

"Wasn't that quite a long dinner? Don't you think the steak got somewhat cold toward the last of it?"

"Actresses generally require two hours to eat dinner," answered Mrs. Howard.

MILLIONAIRE SPURNS SON AND ACTRESS BRIDE

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Frank G. Tullidge, son of the late Cincinnati millionaire, arrived in New York this morning with his bride, who was Katherine Wheaton, a member of Joe Weber's "Dream City" company. From all information at hand it seems certain that the young fellow will have to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow, as the family has cut him off, and he has no money in his own right.

"I am willing to hustle for myself," said Tullidge, "so long as I have attained the happiness I sought."

The couple, while in Cleveland, where they went after the marriage in Chicago, practically isolated themselves from the rest of the world. Not a member of the young man's family saw his wife, but a legal representative of the Tullidges held a conference with the pair. The family refuses to discuss the affair.

TRUST HOLDS COPPER ABROAD TO BULL PRICE

That ships owned by the Standard Oil Company have carried thousands of tons of copper from American ports, in connivance with the Copper Trust, to reduce the supply here, and then reshipped from Japan and other ports in the Orient to meet home demands is the positive statement made to an AMERICAN reporter by an unimpeachable authority. The British steamer Intrapuria has just reached Boston with 1,500 tons of copper ingots shipped from Japan.

For some time large copper shipments from Japan reaching Boston have caused much comment, for Japan is not a copper producing country. By shipping the ore to the Orient the price in America has been kept at an exorbitant figure. Large quantities of copper have been stored on Japanese docks for months and shipped back to the States in small cargoes.

R. H. WHITE Co.

MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY AND SATISFACTORILY FILLED

TOMORROW WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

Will bring our great "CENTURY" Distribution to a close. No applications can be honored after 5:30 P. M. Thursday. Of the limited number of sets allotted to Boston and New England, only a very few now remain; in fact one style of binding has already been exhausted.

To those of our friends who have examined THE CENTURY, and who have decided to own it, but who for any reason are hesitating or delaying, we say very plainly: You must act NOW.

The Boston public has indeed been quick to appreciate the exceptional bargain afforded in the present unique distribution of that greatest of all general reference works, the 10 Massive Volumes; 310 Maps; 8,000 Illustrations; 150,000 Encyclopedic Subjects; 200,000 Geographical Entries; 300,000 Quotations; 500,000 Encyclopedic Dictionary Definitions. Size of Volumes, 12x9x2½ inches; Weight 75 pounds.

Century Dictionary & Cyclopedia & Atlas

THE CENTURY, as you know, is always sold by book canvassers on commission and at high prices, and will be again sold in that way, but the unusual business enterprise of the progressive COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE has temporarily made possible the following remarkable bargain:

GUARANTY OF THE CENTURY CO. This edition (for 1907) of the Century Dictionary and Cyclopedia and Atlas, manufactured and published by us, and just now being distributed by the Cosmopolitan Magazine, is unabridged, contains all the revisions and additions to date, is complete in every way, and is the latest edition published. THE CENTURY CO.

The $80-Century at only $39 Including THE COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE for Two Full Years

THE COSMOPOLITAN wanted to add quickly to its list at least 50,000 high-class subscribers—just such as would be attracted by a work like THE CENTURY—and therefore secured exclusive control of the entire Edition of the work for 1907—by far the largest ever printed. This great edition reduced the cost of individual sets, while the former high standard of mechanical excellence was carefully maintained in every particular.

THE COSMOPOLITAN then CUT OUT THE BIG COMMISSIONS THAT HAD ALWAYS BEEN PAID TO BOOK CANVASSERS, thus effecting a big saving. The Magazine did not figure upon a penny of present profit, resting content with the NEW SUBSCRIPTIONS sure to be added to its list. Thus the price was scaled down to the lowest notch—to only $39 for the complete set as stated, including a two years' subscription to THE COSMOPOLITAN, the whole transaction being arranged in payments so convenient as to place the work within the easy reach of all:

"Seeing is Believing"

Some people may be sceptical about this really remarkable offer. It may seem "too good to be true." It is good and it is true. Although the price is so low, the value is all there. Every set is of the latest revised, enlarged and improved edition, fully guaranteed by THE CENTURY CO. and THE COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE and fully endorsed by R. H. WHITE CO.—a pretty strong combination. But come and see for yourself. Inspect the volumes carefully. Compare them critically with any or all former editions and you can not fail to be absolutely convinced. "Seeing is believing."

$1 Secures the Complete 10-Volume Set; only $2 Monthly for the Balance, or, if You Prefer, a 5% Discount for Cash.

Thousands of the sets were quickly distributed throughout the country, but THE COSMOPOLITAN finally decided to place the remainder of the edition in special sections of the Union where magazine circulation is most valuable.

We were fortunate in securing for our own Book Department the few hundred sets allotted to Boston and New England, and these sets have been going FASTER AND FASTER DAY BY DAY. We therefore announce that

FOR Young Graduates No Gift So Fitting So Attractive So Enduring and (above all) So Useful as the CENTURY Set GET IT NOW Little Price Easy Terms

The End of the Distribution is Now Very Near; You Must Act at Once

The allotment for Boston and New England is nearly exhausted. It is even now too late to enjoy a full choice in the matter of bindings. In fact, only three of the four styles are now available, and, all told, there are so few sets left that THE COSMOPOLITAN has instructed us to withdraw the offer to send out volumes for examination.

The safest way, therefore, is to come at once to our Book Department and inspect the volumes and decide about the binding. If you cannot conveniently call you may mail the initial dollar and a regular application form will be sent to you and a set will be reserved, but you must now act without delay if you want to avail yourself of

Women as Wage Earners

ONE woman out of every five in the United States is a breadwinner. This is proven by a report entitled "Women at Work in the United States," just made public by the census bureau, and while it is full of statistics, it is almost as interesting as fiction.

In continental United States—by which is meant the United States exclusive of Alaska, Hawaii, and other outlying territorial possessions—there are 23,485,559 women over sixteen years of age. Of this number 4,833,630 are breadwinners.

This vast army of female workers is divided into 294 occupations, of which there are 125 occupations employing more than 1,000 women.

Of these 125 occupations there are ten great subdivisions which employ the great majority of women breadwinners. In the order of their numerical importance they are:

Domestic servants	1,124,383
Farm laborers	430,405
Dressmakers	338,144
Laundresses	328,935
Teachers	327,206
Farmers	307,706
Textile mill operatives	231,458
Housekeepers	146,929
Saleswomen	142,265
Seamstresses	138,724

In Odd Employment

These ten classes do not include many of the familiar occupations of women, as it will be noticed at once that there is no reference in the list to stenographers, factory workers, printers, binders, telegraphers and such like.

There are some women following odd occupations—odd for women—occupations in which they make a bold invasion into the domains of the male breadwinners.

For instance, the census shows that women are doing work of real men in the following occupations:

Street railway motormen	2
Ocean and river pilots	5
Baggagemen	10
Brakemen	31
Locomotive engineers and firem'n	45
Switchmen and flagmen	26
Hack drivers	44
Ship carpenters	3
Roofers and slaters	2
Blacksmiths	185
Machinists	508
Boilermakers	8
Charcoal and coke burners	31
Well borers	11

Of the 303 occupations followed by male breadwinners all but nine have been adopted by one or more women. No women are reported as United States soldiers, sailors or marines, as members of city fire departments, as telegraph or telephone linemen, as apprentices or helpers to roofers and slaters, or as helpers to steam boilermakers, or to brass workers.

Young Women in Majority

Most of the women at work were young women; 68.4 per cent. of them were under thirty-five years of age, 44.2 per cent. were under twenty-five, and 25.6 per cent. had not reached the age of twenty-one. These figures are in marked contrast with those for the male sex. Of the men sixteen years of age and over reported as workers or breadwinners only 24.7 per cent. were under the age of twenty-five, and only 12.7 per cent. were under twenty-one.

This contrast is indicative of the fact that large numbers of women who support themselves and others in early life cease to be breadwinners upon assuming the responsibilities of marriage and child bearing.

Advice to Anxious Sweethearts

By Beatrice Fairfax

A MISUNDERSTANDING

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl seventeen years old, and have been keeping company with a young man two years my senior. For the last three years we have been sweethearts, and now he wants me to become engaged to him. We love each other very dearly, but I read an article of yours last night in which you said young people under twenty are so apt to mistake infatuation for true love, and I could not sleep all night long, thinking about that and wondering if it could be possible that ours is only infatuation. I try to tell myself no—it is true love. Now tell me, dear Miss Fairfax, cannot young people love dearly and truly as well as older people, for I loved this dear boy when I was only fifteen—I liked him at fourteen? Now I seem to love him more and more all the time, so please tell me is this infatuation or true love? I am sure you can, and relieve an

ANXIOUS GIRL.

MY dear child, you did not fully understand what I said. It is possible for a young girl to love very sincerely, but I advise her to go slowly and not rush into matrimony before she is perfectly sure that she has found the man she can love through everything. I am sorry you have been unhappy. I do think seventeen is too young for a girl to marry. It is far better to have an engagement of a year or so, and then she can be quite sure of herself.

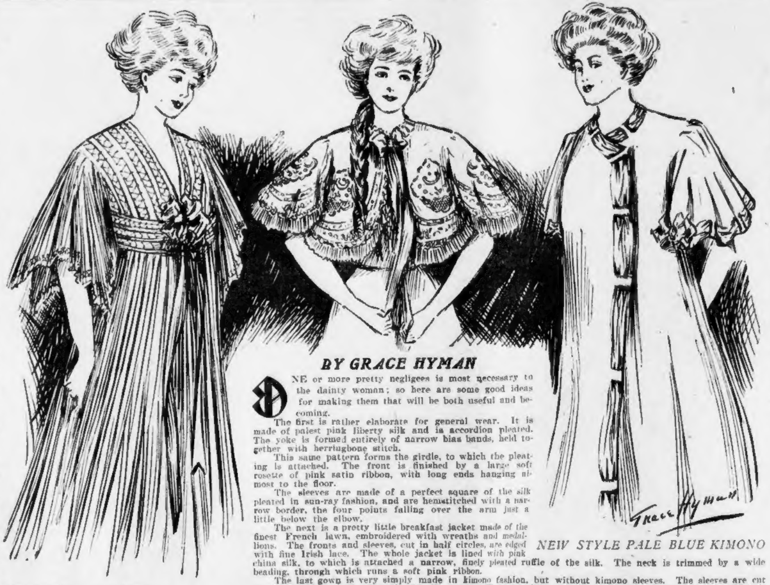
KIMONO STYLES ARE POPULAR FOR NEGLIGEES AND BREAKFAST COATS



ACCORDION PLEATED PINK LIBERTY SILK

NEW STYLE PALE BLUE KIMONO

BY GRACE HYMAN

ONE or more pretty negligees is most necessary to the dainty woman; so here are some good ideas for making them that will be both useful and becoming.

The first is rather elaborate for general wear. It is made of palest pink liberty silk and is accordion pleated. The yoke is formed entirely of narrow bias bands, held together with herringbone stitch.

This same pattern forms the girdle, to which the pleating is attached. The front is finished by a large soft rosette of pink satin ribbon, with long ends hanging almost to the floor.

The sleeves are made of a perfect square of the silk pleated in sun-ray fashion, and are hemstitched with a narrow border, the four points falling over the arm just a little below the elbow.

The next is a pretty little breakfast jacket made of the finest French lawn, embroidered with wreaths and medallions. The fronts and sleeves, cut in half circles, are edged with fine Irish lace. The whole jacket is lined with pink china silk, to which is attached a narrow, finely pleated ruffle of the silk. The neck is trimmed by a wide beading, through which runs a soft pink ribbon.

The last gown is very simply made in kimono fashion, but without kimono sleeves. The sleeves are cut in circular shape and trimmed with the same puffings of ribbon as the neck and edge of the gown. This is done by slashing the material at intervals of eight or nine inches, buttonholing the edges, and passing the ribbon in and out down the whole length of the kimono.

"THE HERITAGE OF HATE"

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

HE put it in the inside breast pocket of his coat. His face was still very grave. He appeared to be in thought. It was almost in silence that he and Sister Rachel quitted the room and then the house, and found themselves walking side by side along the street.

They had walked some distance through the thoroughfare before he spoke. There he noticed the people looking at her, smiling to her, whispering about her; here and there a poor man or woman greeted her with a blessing, and dirty little boys and girls would run up to her, craving a word, a touch or a smile, sometimes even venturing to pull at her cloak in their eagerness to attract her attention. A smile, half sad, but very tender, came upon his own lips.

"How they love you," he said. "It is wonderful."

"Love Wins Love"

"It is only because I love them," she answered, smiling back to him. "Love always wins love."

He was silent for awhile. When he spoke again she knew that he was thinking of the same thing that was uppermost in her own mind—Jack Heath's difficulties, and his appeal for help. He glanced at her as she spoke, and she felt that he was asking himself whether he could in honor communicate to her some idea of the contents of the young fellow's letter; but, believing her to be none other than Sister Rachel, a stranger to the Heaths, as, until within the past year, she had been to the town, he decided that he could not.

Naturally, he did not suspect that she had read the letter. He began to talk half to himself, and seemingly of things and people in general; but she, with her secret enlightenment, could see that his words were the outcome of the appeal which he had just received.

"I am not so sure that love always wins love," he said slowly and sadly.

He was thinking at that moment of Pauline Heath. Then his thoughts returned again to Jack

The Mother's Plea

"Some people think, too, that goodness induces goodness," he continued. "They believe that kindness is a strong reclaiming power. I am not convinced that it is so. In dealing with young men, for instance—young men who have a tendency to wildness—too much kindness is only a mistake.

"I believe that to persist in helping them out of their difficulties and disgraces only helps them in the end to their own destruction. It is right to help a young fellow the first time he gets himself into trouble; it may even be right to help him a second time, but to continue helping him, and trusting anew to his repeatedly broken promises, is madness."

"And yet, if help be refused him, may he not be discouraged and do worse?"

She spoke quite calmly. No one would have thought she was pleading for her son.

"No," Alfred Harding answered, "not if he has any manliness in him at all. If, after he has been helped once or twice, he asks help again and comes asking for it with weak and unmanly excuses for having relapsed, it is a sufficient proof that he has the sort of character which can only grow strong through adversity.

"It is best to be cast entirely upon their own resources, in order that they may develop the best that is in them. They must face the consequences of their own folly. To keep on smoothing their path for them is the cruellest and most fatal thing their friends can do. It is a course of action of which I myself would never be guilty."

He spoke firmly and yet sorrowfully. By this time they were close to the hospital gates. And by the light of her secret knowledge Sister Rachel understood beyond a doubt that those words referred directly to her son—her son, and Aubrey Heath's heir; and, that, for Jack's own sake, Alfred Harding did not intend to send the $250 of which the young fellow declared himself to stand in so great need.

A terrible anxiety fell on Sister Rachel's heart. She had found that it was true—true beyond a doubt—that Jack had set his feet upon the path of inheritance from her of a tendency to crime, as people would think, by return of the yielding of his own nature and the lack of a father's guidance in his life. Was it not bad enough that he should have been been motherless almost almost from his infancy, without being fatherless, too? Could he be utterly blamed after such a youth?

The Heath Name at Stake

She knew that it was not from lack of generosity that the man who loved her daughter had decided now not to help her son; Jack's own letter proved abundantly that Alfred Harding had helped him liberally on two previous occasions.

Her own judgment told her that it was best that the rash, reckless, open-hearted, but somewhat pliant boy should be left for once to confront the consequences of his weak yielding to the persuasions of evil companions.

But she was afraid so to leave him: afraid lest, instead of bracing himself manfully to meet the difficulty, he should in his desperation only rush the faster down the slope which leads to ruin. The words of that letter, so light and boyish, covered much that might be tragic. And not only his own life's happiness, but the fair keeping of the Heath name depended on his redemption from even the possibility of actual sin.

"He must have the money this time—just this once," she said within herself.

But how was he to have it? She could not plead with Dr. Harding to send it. What reason could she urge? How could she even explain her knowledge that Jack Heath needed it?

Financial Straits

It was impossible. Then who could she ask? His father anonymously?

No. Jack himself had said that his father would probably not have the money; and to mention his need of it to Aubrey would only be to betray him and to provoke the inquiries which he apparently dreaded. There was Mr. Jolly; he would certainly lend her the money. But she could not bring herself to borrow it from him without explaining why she needed it. He had helped her so much already that she could not presume upon his kindness while refusing to confide in him; and a sense of pride on the boy's behalf deterred her from such a confidence.

No, rather than make it, she would strive to send the money from her own scanty store. She did not actually possess it to send, for, it represented more than her yearly salary. But she would manage to get it somehow; she would borrow it of a stranger as a purely business transaction, and would send it to Jack anonymously. Then she would pay off the loan dollar by dollar and no one would ever know.

Learn the Secret of Dressing Tastily

IF you would dress in good taste, pay particular attention to shoes, gloves and veils, to nicety in the matter of neckwear and to trifles that give pretty finishing touches to a plain costume.

The woman who is dressed in good taste is not always the one who spends the most on her clothes, but rather the one who can afford so few frocks that she sticks to plain modes and colors best suited to her.

The woman who will give a little thought to the matter of dress manages to spend less money and get better results and service than the careless, indifferent woman who is content to wear "just anything."

A woman's gown is one of the indexes to her character. If for no other reason it should merit careful consideration.

Some women always dress loudly, always wear the extremes of fashion, and even exaggerate extremes.

If checked cloth, pointed shoes, short skirts or long coats are in style, they insist on broader checks, more pointed shoes, shorter skirts and longer coats than the fashion prescribes.

In other words, everything is exaggerated, so that people will think that they are not only right up to fashion, but also a little ahead.

Women who dress in this manner suffer because such things indicate certain character qualities—inordinate vanity, an overestimation of one's importance, superficiality, foolishness.

Character is estimated by little things, and when people seem to spend most of their energies in thinking about themselves it is taken for granted that they are not much good for the solid, substantial things of life.

People who are given to thinking too much of themselves always think too little of others.

They are proverbially selfish, and selfishness is instinctively despised by everyone.

Handy Things for Housewives to Know

A SURE way to rid your home of rats and mice is to take pieces of sponge, well filled with cayenne pepper (oil of peppermint also is good) and stuff all the holes in floors and walls through which they come. This you will find a much better plan than poison or traps. The poison is dangerous to have around, and rats often die in the walls, and when caught in a trap you generally have the unpleasant task of killing and getting rid of them.

It is an annoying thing to break a valuable china ornament, and the following simple way of mending it may be useful: By applying a little carriage varnish carefully with a camel-hair brush to the edges of broken china, the parts being neatly joined together, the fracture will, when thoroughly dry, be hardly perceptible.

Lay two thicknesses of newspapers on the bed springs and then lay the mattress on the papers. This keeps the mattress from getting black marks on it. Sometimes in rainy weather the springs get rusty, and it gets on the mattress, but if you keep paper on the springs it picks up all the rust.

Steam-heated rooms have the tendency of drying a piano out of tune. An uncovered crock or butter jar filled with water, and placed inside the piano out of harm's way, will help to obviate the difficulty.

To do up ruffled net curtains, stretch out on a sheet after starching. Pin just to the ruffles and leave until dry. Take up and iron only the ruffles, dampening as you go along. This will leave the curtain perfectly straight.

HOW TO BE BEAUTIFUL

By the Professor

GOOD FACE BLEACH

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Please tell me how to use peroxide of hydrogen as a face bleach. Will it harm the complexion? TANNED.

PEROXIDE is perfectly harmless and sometimes does wonders in bleaching the face. Dab it, full strength, on the face with a soft cloth, let it dry and then anoint the face with a little lanoline. Do this once a day and do not be discouraged if the results are slow in coming, as while in some cases it acts very quickly, in others it takes some time to se any change.

BUST DEVELOPMENT

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Will you please give me a formula for a cream to massage the bust with; also something to harden the bust? ELSIE.

MELT together 5 ounces of lanoline, 5 ounces of freshly tried mutton tallow, 4 ounces each of oil of cocoanut and sweet almonds and ½ ounce of spermaceti. Beat in slowly 4 ounces of toilet water, adding drop by drop one dram of benzoin and 20 drops of oil of neroli. This makes a good developing cream and should be applied in gentle circular motions around the bust. Be careful that the treatment is not harsh, but only such as will arouse the circulation and cause the flesh to take up the fattening food. Bathe the bust with alcohol or warm vinegar, also giving it applications of cold water to harden the tissues.

KEEP HAIR LIGHT

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Please tell me of something that will keep my hair light. It is naturally a golden color, but is lately getting darker and I want to restore it to its natural shades. JENNIE.

USE the yolks of eggs in your shampooing and occasionally use soap jelly with salts of tartar or clear lemon juice added, a teaspoonful for the amount of jelly used for one shampoo, and I think your hair will retain its golden tint.

Girls, Be Careful When and How You Write Love Letters

By Beatrice Fairfax

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

About a year ago I met a young man a year older than myself, my age being seventeen. We fell in love and went with each other until about a month ago, when we quarrelled and separated. Now, this young man has in his possession several letters which I wrote to him, and which are of such a nature that I would not like anybody else to see them. He is just the one to show these letters to the boys at the school which we attend; in fact, I have known him to show one of my letters to a boy friend of mine, thus making me feel embarrassed. A week ago I asked him for these letters, and he said he would not give them to me. Later I asked him again, and then he said he would return them only if I gave him the letters which he wrote to me. I have, however, destroyed these, which I told him. Now, don't you think he ought to return these letters since I no longer have his? Please tell me some way in which I could persuade him, since I feel very uneasy about it.

Is it proper to allow a young man who has escorted you from a party to kiss you good night? Are kissing games the proper thing to play at a party, especially if most of the boys there are strangers whom one has never met before? ANXIOUS.

THERE, girls, is a letter for you to read carefully and take to heart.

There is no harm in a girl writing to a man if she will only bear in mind the great importance of being careful about what she writes. Let your letters be friendly, but not confidential and sentimental. Never write anything that you will be ashamed of later.

As this girl's experience shows, there is never any telling whose hands they will fall into.

A man who will show a girl's letters to another man is an unspeakable cad, but unfortunately there are such men in the world, and so it behooves girls to be careful. The only way for this girl to get her letters back is to send her father or brother to ask for them. The man who refuses to give them to her is probably a coward and will not dare refuse them to a man.

As regards the second part of the above letter, I can only give her the same answer that I have given many other girls.

If a girl is engaged to a man, he certainly has the right and expects to kiss her good-night. But when you allow a man whom you have met but casually and whom you know nothing about to kiss you, you make a great mistake. He probably kisses every girl he meets, and no girl with a spark of pride would care to be one of the many.

Kissing games at parties usually develop into rowdyism. There are many healthy forms of amusement without indulging in games of that kind.

I think every wholesome-minded girl will agree with me in what I have said, and, in any case, I want you to think it well over, girls, and benefit by the experience of "Anxious."

Tight Hosiery Is Harmful to Feet

"MADAM, do you know what is the trouble with your feet?" was the question put to a young woman customer the other day by a shoe expert. "There is nothing the matter with the shoes. The trouble lies with your stockings. They are too small for you."

"Why, that's absurd," exclaimed the woman. "They're the same size I've been in the habit of wearing for years."

"Nevertheless, the trouble lies right there. You may not know it, but quite as many troubles of the feet are caused by wearing stockings that are too short as shoes that are too small.

"Women seldom realize this until they come to me with their third toe doubled up like yours and wonder what is the matter. They invariably lay it to the shoes, when in reality it's the stockings.

"The effect of wearing stockings which are too short is quite as harmful as that of tight lacing. Such a stocking compresses the foot, interferes with the circulation and paves the way for many troubles.

"On the other hand, you should not b too large stockings, for they are apt wrinkle, and even a tiny fold will alm instantly cause a callous spot.

"As to the kind of stocking you sh purchase, I favor cotton, for the re that it is less heating than silk and s than lisle. This year there is wh called a mercerized cotton, which is cially fine and soft.

"Another point which you should rem ber is that stockings should be changed once a day. This will not only make them last longer, but will be much better for the feet."

OREGON'S BEAUTIFUL FARMERS VISIT HUB

CHAMPION GIRL FARMERS FROM OREGON COMING

Seventeen Breezy Western Maids, With Records for Hustling, in Gotham.

Seventeen Western girls, typical of broad Oregon, are in New York, the guests of Editor Philip S. Bates, of the Pacific Northwest, and after they properly "do" the metropolis they are, likely as not, to take a run over to the Hub and brush up on the centre of the scenes of the Revolution and of many stirring epochs since that far day.

With all the freshness and confidence of the breeze-swept fields and mountains of their Western home, the seventeen took possession of the Hotel Martha Washington. Then they sallied out to get a peep of the greatest city of the effete East.

"Papa Bates" the free and happy girls style their editor-chaperone, and the way they advertise his Pacific Northwest and the great State of Oregon is at once delightful as it is novel.

"Gotham Men Rude."

"New York men are rude," declared the girls before they had been in the city a day. "New York women are artificial. New York streets are dirty. Broadway is full of the funniest dumpy litle buildings you ever saw." And so on.

New York isn't in it with Oregon or its men or its cities.

"It's the longest trip ever given by an agricultural paper, you know," said Miss Dollie Hefty of Gardiner, Douglas County. "It's all in the interest of booming our country as an agricultural centre.

"We are all tremendously interested in New York," she said.

"Yes, but having seen Washington first, of course it seems rather ugly," put in Miss Mancho Langley, of Forest Grove, Washington.

"New York is certainly dirty," continued Miss Hefty. "Why, the streets are terrible.

"You can tell a Western man in New York immediately, that is by his politeness.

"Broadway Disappointing."

"Why, New York men are the rudest men I have ever seen. You get in a streetcar and what happens? The men bury their heads in their papers and let the women stand up. You never see that out in Washington. This morning we got in a crowded car and had to sit in the back three rows reserved for men. Every one puffed smoke in our faces and didn't even make a pretense of stopping. Out West a man would throw his cigar away before he would puff smoke in a woman's face.

"Western men are instinctively polite. They are never rude from selfishness. Your New York men, so far as I have been able to judge, have been taught better, but instinctively they have no appreciation of being polite.

"Excepting the women you see on upper Broadway, there isn't much difference between the West and the East. I do think, though, that most every woman I meet must be an actress. We would be sure they were actresses if they were in Oregon.

"And Broadway? Why, I was so disappointed," said Miss Langley. "I had heard so much about your great White Way, and I expected to see something dazzling."

"Women Artificial."

"You see we girls are the ones who got the most subscriptions for the Pacific Northwest in our respective counties, the prizes being a trip to the Jamestown Exposition, Washington and New York, Niagar Falls and other points," said Miss Pansy Speelman of Haines, Baker County, Oregon.

Miss Pansy, like all the other girls, has the fresh Western color which does not come in boxes.

"What impressed me most," put in Miss Ada Metcalfe, "is the artificiality of your women. Why, they all appear amazed at me whenever I express a frank opinion, and if I happen to laugh out loud or say anything to an elevator boy they look horrified. Gracious, I'd hate to be so afraid of myself."

Are Champion Farmers.

"Papa" Bates was joyously welcomed by his charges.

"This is Miss Alda Metcalf of Benton County, who can milk ten cows without resting. She is the champion girl milker of the State and is a wonder," was "papa's" introduction. Miss Metcalf blushed and allowed that she did not milk ten cows in a row without resting at all times, but mostly when she was in a hurry to finish the chores and go to dance.

"Miss Ellen Harrison——"

"Papa" got no further in his speech of introduction, for Miss Harrison spoke herself.

"I am the champion cheesemaker," she said, in a modest way that admitted no denial. "You know they make $3,000,000 worth of cheese in our country each year."

"Miss Helen Swain, the best woman lasso-thrower in the West," was next extolled by Mr. Bates. "I have seen her rope a bucking bronco with the skill of a cow-puncher of years' experience.

"Miss Pansy Speelman, the champion rider. She is the most graceful woman rider ever in a saddle.

WOMAN GOES TO INVESTIGATE PANAMA EVILS

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Every possible facility will be extended by the government to Miss Gertrude Beeks of the National Civic Federation in her investigation of conditions on the Isthmus of Panama. She will sail to-morrow for Colon, taking with her letters from Secretary of War Taft, which will give her a semi-official status.

Although administration officials believe the recent charges of immorality and graft have been grossly exaggerated, they are anxious to have uncovered any evils that may exist, in order that proper remedies may be applied.

It is Miss Beeks's intention to remain on the isthmus six weeks or two months, and to inquire thoroughly into the moral and sanitary conditions.

ROGERS PUTS COURT ABOVE ROOSEVELT

Oil Magnate Says Lawyers Will Determine Roosevelt's Power in Railroad Control.

LEAVES ALL TO JUDGES

PARIS, June 3.—The United States courts and not President Roosevelt will have to settle the question as to whether the regulation of railroads by the Federal Government is permissible under the clause in the constitution providing for the establishment and maintenance of postroads.

Anyway, this is the way H. H. Rogers, the Standard Oil magnate, now in France with his wife, says it must be done. He said:

"Mr. Roosevelt seems to have discovered a point of law. If the law holds there will be no more to be said, but that question will be brought out in the United States by lawyers. It is an entirely new thing to me, and I would not like to express an opinion here.

Mr. Rogers added that only the courts can settle such a question, and intimated he is perfectly willing to let them decide the point.

Mr. Rogers was asked: "What do you think about the President's construing the post-roads clause of the Constitution as giving the Federal Government the right to supervise and control the railroads of America?"

He answered: "Mr. Roosevelt seems to have discovered a point of law. If the law holds there will be no more to be said, but that question will be brought out in the United States by lawyers."

Asked if he would not say something on the presidential election, Mr. Rogers replied frigidly: "No, nothing on that, please.

"I have seen two news items about Mr. Roosevelt," he said, "which I cannot credit. One told how he had advised farmers to combine in the speech he made before the Michigan Agricultural College.

"I cannot believe it," he insisted. "You see, he advises the farmers to combine. Then why does he wish to stop other people from combining?"

YOUTH JAILED AS SLAYER OF 2 COMPANIONS

Lad's Father Succumbs to Heart Failure After Hearing Double Tragedy.

BOY FAILS TO GET BAIL

Special to the Boston American.

PROVIDENCE, June 3.—Fitzroy Willard to-day faces warrants for murder and manslaughter which are to be asked for against him by Deputy Chief Murray because of the death from bullets of his two fellow-clerks, Amos N. Gorham and Thomas E. Edmundson, in the office of the Brown & Sharpe Manufacturing Company's plant Friday afternoon. Charles P. Willard, the father of the boy now in Cranston jail in default of $15,000 bail, died at his home, No. 6 Brighton street, Sunday morning at 2 o'clock from heart disease.

Youth's Father Succumbs.

Gorham's death was expected hourly almost from the time of his arrival at the hospital, his wound being recognized from the first as of the most dangerous character.

Mr. Gorham's mother and brother came on from their home in Boston early yesterday and went to the hospital, where they remained until after death took place.

At the Willard home it was said last night that Mr. Willard had been ailing for some time, and had been confined to his bed since early last week with a complication of diseases, under which he sank rapidly till death.

Hold Autopsies.

Mr. Willard is survived by a widow and four children, three sons, Charles P., Walter H. and Fitzroy Willard, and a daughter.

Fitzroy Willard was informed of his father's death yesterday afternoon by his brother, Walter, who made a personal visit to the prison. He was much affected by the news.

An autopsy on the body of Thomas E. Edmundson was held yesterday morning, and the medical examiner found that death was due to blood poisoning.

Edmundson was shot while endeavoring to disarm Willard after the latter had shot Gorham.

Nothing to Watch But the Cooking

The dial tells you the exact degree of heat, just as a clock tells the time. The flame needs no watching to regulate it—it's all controlled by a simple lever on the dial plate. The Florence Automatic burns ordinary kerosene in a different way—without the aid of wicks and valves. Gives a blue flame of intense heat. The

CATHEDRAL TO COST 3,000,000

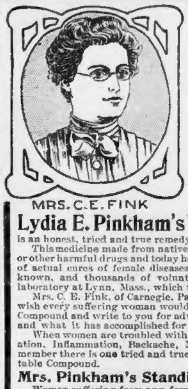
By Boston American Leased Wire.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 3.—Thirty thousand worshippers sang a Te Deum yesterday when the corner stone of the new Roman Catholic Cathedral of St. Paul was laid. The cathedral, when completed four years hence, probably, will surpass any Roman Catholic Church in America in architectural beauty. Its cost will be $3,000,000.

RUNAWAY HORSE SCARES WOMEN

A runaway horse, dashing wildly along Geneva avenue, Dorchester, last night caused excitement among women and children on their way to church and was stopped by Patrolman Patrick J. McNeily of Station 2.

The horse and a light runabout was left by the owner, True N. Stevens, in front of his store at Geneva avenue and Westville street, and became frightened.



MRS. C. E. FINK

HEALTH OF WOMEN

In this nineteenth century to keep up with the march of progress every power of woman is strained to its utmost, and the tax upon her physical system is far greater than ever.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers few drugs were used in medicines. They relied upon roots and herbs to cure weaknesses and disease, and their knowledge of roots and herbs was far greater than that of women today.

It was in this study of roots and herbs that Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., discovered and gave to the women of the world a remedy more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an honest, tried and true remedy of unquestionable therapeutic value.

This medicine made from native roots and herbs contains no narcotics or other harmful drugs and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any medicine the world has ever known, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the laboratory at Lynn, Mass., which testify to its wonderful value.

Mrs. C. E. Fink, of Carnegie, Pa., writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "I wish every suffering woman would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and write to you for advice. It has done me a world of good and what it has accomplished for me I know it will do for others."

When women are troubled with Irregularities, Displacements, Ulceration, Inflammation, Backache, Nervous Prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Out of her vast volume of experience she probably has the very knowledge that will help your case.

Unless Old Sol comes out strong and gets in his work on the Huntington avenue field the Highlanders and Unglaub's men will not be able to clean up the series. With a game apiece both teams would like to capture the odd one.

As the Pilgrims are due to start their winning streak right away Manager Unglaub won't let any chance get by to annex all the games possible, but at that, a rest to-day will give the team more ginger to get after the Tigers, who put in an appearance to-morrow.

Ralph Glaze is down to do the pitching stunt to-day if the game is played, and the youngster was never better.

Clarke Griffith's bunch of pitchers are not in any too good shape when the veteran himself has to take a hand in the game, and he will have to pick out the twirler who appears in the best condition.

To-morrow the Detroit team, headed by Hughey Jennings, come here for a series of four games and then follow Cleveland, St. Louis, New York, Philadelphia and Washington, making a total of twenty-seven games in all, and when the Senators and the Highlanders arrive again there will be some doubleheaders on the list which will increase the lump.

The fans are watching things pretty closely just now, as this home series will tell conclusively where the team stands in the race this year and the players realize that they have got to get a move on.

Yale Crews Will Go to Thames on Wednesday

NEW HAVEN, Ct., June 3.—Rowing on the New Haven Harbor is practically over for the season for Yale oarsmen. They will have a light spin to-day and Tuesday, their shells being shipped Tuesday night for New London, and, it is planned, arriving at Gales Ferry, Yale's historic training quarters on the Thames, before the three crews get there next Wednesday afternoon. Permission has been given for the rowing squad to go to the Thames June 5 to remain till the Yale-Harvard regatta June 27, and with to-day's long row the oarsmen practically wound up their home training.

Quarters All Ready.

Their quarters at Gales Ferry have been put in excellent condition by Manager Dixon of the Navy, the retinue of cooks and trainers will go there next Tuesday and the Yale launch will steam over from this city Wednesday morning. The squad which goes to New London will include the varsity eight, the varsity four, four varsity substitutes, and the freshman eight with two or three substitutes. Including the three coxswains a total of twenty-five oarsmen will go.

Dr. E. L. Durfee of the faculty will be in charge of the examinations in scholarship which begin the day after the oarsmen's arrival at Gales Ferry.

The past week the varsity eight has succeeded in finally getting over the four-mile course on the harbor, for the first time this season. The time made was only partially satisfactory, because of high winds, but the form shown by the oarsmen was promising. Since the second eight returned from the American Henley races the varsity has been reorganized and will go to New London, rowing as follows: Stroke, Boulton; No. 7, Captain Ide; No. 6, Howe; No. 5, Taft; No. 4, Hoppin; No. 3, Dunkle; No. 2, Mayer; bow, Griswold.

Changes in Eight.

Several changes will be made in the eight upon its arrival at New London, when something like a settled makeup will be attempted for the first time this season. Rockwell, bow oar last year, has returned to college, after six weeks' absence, caused by an attack of appendicitis. He is rowing again and may get back his old place. Graham may again win back No. 2, in which he rowed last season.

Coach John Kennedy is delighted at the success of the Yale second crew in the American Henley, in which his oarsmen defeated the Harvard Freshman and Cornell eights. It was the first time a Yale crew, coached by Kennedy, has met a Cornell eight coached by Charley Courtney, and the outcome of the race is regarded as very significant. The victory was all the more welcome because the Yale eight was required to row two races the same afternoon.

Notes of the Harness Horses

Trainer Jimmy Timothy made a good buy when he got the two-year-old Direct Hal, 2:04¼, filly from J. M. Johnson, as he already has been offered an advance of $1,000 over what she cost him. With hardly track work to call counting, she stepped off a quarter the other morning at Lexington in 32¾ seconds. By the way, W. B. Chisholm of Cleveland has written Mr. Johnson for a price on Regent's Last, the dam of this filly, he owning Reproachless, out of her, a C. and C. candidate.

Will Milam, who had J. Frank Howland's horses last year, has been engaged by W. Hidden, Sharon Station, N. Y., to train this year. Mr. Hidden owns about thirty-five head and has a good half-mile track on his farm. Mr. Howland has disposed of all his trotters with the exception of American Law, 2:22¼, which is standing at his farm in Paris, Me.

W. B. Sprague has severed his connections with T. W. Peirce of North Andover and has contracted with Alan Wood Smith of Clearfield, Pa., to handle Gene Whitcomb, 2:16¼; Prince Away, 2:17¼, and some green material of promise.

John Hills of Boston has sold to C. H. Rowe, Athol, Mass., the pacer Chehalis, Jr., that is considered well worth the training.

Nelson Bogue of Batavia, N. Y., has sold his young stallion, White River Patchen, to O. M. Pratt of Lowell, who is establishing an extensive breeding farm of Morgan horses at Plymouth, N. H.

Everett Clarke of Boston has sent to Edwin Bither at Readville his four-year-old mare by Baron Wilkes, 2:18, dam by Constantine, 2:12½, to get into condition for the matinees.

One that is pleasing Bob Londy mightily these days is the trotting mare Dividend, 2:28¼, owned by George Hall of the Adams House. She shows every sign of pulling down a bunch of silver cups in the matinees of the Boston Driving Club, as 2:20 won't stop her when raced.

Millard Drinkwater has done very little towards giving his grand circuit candidate, Bonum, fast work, but in a couple of weeks will begin hitting him along in his miles. He is a fast pacer.

Bob Davis has in his string at Point Breeze track, near Philadelphia, quite a number of horses that were formerly owned and raced in this section, among the number being Cascade, 2:06¼; Lexington, 2:17¼, and Ismahan, 2:21¼.

It proved that after all Bob Smith did not strike Cleveland with his Grand Circuit mare Bellemont, 2:13½, when he came East from California, but is located at Point Breeze track.

The former turf reporter Walter J. Snyder is doing a land office business in leasing tracks and holding races. His latest on the list is Utica and Rochester, N. Y.

Harry Devereux has been elected president of the Cleveland Driving Club, being the ninth time that he has filled that position in the club's affairs.

It is suggested that a good card for the racing event would be "Uncle Jock" Bowen, John Turner, John Splan, A. J. Feek and George P. Floyd in a race with a field of evenly matched trotters hitched to high-wheel sulkies. Might add Dan Bigley and Charley Taylor to the list.

Dave Cross, for several seasons caretaker of Eddie Rice's noted pacer, The Friend, 2:05½, died suddenly of acute indigestion in the horse's stall at Dover, N. H., and as nothing could be learned of his relatives he was buried in that city.

W. J. Lewis, 2:06¼, will be laid on the shelf this year, with the hopes that the leg he injured at Lexington, Ky., last Fall will come good as new next season.

Baron Grafton, 2:03¼, and Ardele, 2:03¾, recently worked Memphis track together in 2:07¼, last half in 1:01¼, final quarter in 0:29¼. Geers, too, worked Geraldine a mile in 2:10, but it is reported she will be saved over for the slow pacing stakes in 1908.

The Austrian trotting Derby was witnessed by 35,000 persons and was won by Dora, the daughter of the American stallion, E. A. Robinson, 2:17¾. The former Baltimore resident, Louis Winans, is the owner of Dora, and she was driven by the former Cleveland trainer, Al. Pennock. The money value to the winner was $12,180.

RUMOR ON COAST GROWS STRONGER

BRITT TO MEET NELSON

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—For several days past there have been rumors to the effect that Battling Nelson, who hasn't "turned a wheel" in nearly two years, is to be brought here in a hurry from Hot Springs and signed up with Jimmy Britt, so that the enemies of Promotor Coffroth, who has arranged a Fourth of July contest between Squires, the Australian champion, and Tommy Burns, may be able to "stage" an opposition pugilistic event on the national holiday. The report has been denied weekly, but it crops up again.

The story goes that the desire to spoil the Colma attraction as far as possible has as its well-spring animosities engendered among the members of that turbulent organization known as the fight trust and that Billy Nolan, who manages Nelson and detests Coffroth, on account of a wrangle over moving-picture money, has lined up with the anti-Coffroth forces in the attempt to bring confusion to the plans of the Colma promoter.

As to the jars and jealousies which beset the old fight trust and made it a laughing stock in the eyes of sporting men the country over, the writer has nothing further to say than that it is a pity the game of cross purposes which was played throughout that practically fightless year should be perpetuated. As to the Coffroth-Nolan suit for an accounting, or whatever it is, the matter, I understand, is in the courts and it is only fair to assume that a just decision will be tendered when the time comes.

This thing of attempting to kill off one fight by arranging another for the same date is something which concerns the public, however, and as such it is the privilege of sporting critics to comment upon it.

MATCH LOOKS QUEER.

No matter at which angle the matter is viewed it looks queer. To begin with it cannot possibly be a money-making venture, for no sane matchmaker would think of selecting a date that has already been preempted by another in his line of business. Incidentally, one of the queerest points in this queer business is that while it is common talk that the matching of Nelson and Britt for July 4 is to be gone through, no one is quite sure who is to be the leading promoter of the event.

It is claimed that the details of the bout were arranged by Billy Nolan and Willis Britt and that assurance is forthcoming that a permit for holding the fight in San Francisco will be granted, but in the name of what person or club the permit is to be issued, or just where the contest is to take place, is being kept a secret.

The evident disinclination of the club manager or head promoter to disclose his identity suggests that he feels he will be a party to a rather unsportsmanlike undertaking. There has never been any particular demand for a Nelson-Britt return match, the impression left by that affair at Colma two years ago being that the question of superiority was definitely settled at that time. As proof of this it may be cited that while fanciful and fabulous purses have been offered for all kinds of fights, not even one of the new rich Nevada mining camps has named a price for a second meeting between the Dane and the Native Son.

BRITT PURSUES THE DANE.

Britt, however, has been persistent in seeking another meeting with the Norseman, and to do him justice he has always seemed to be sincere in his desire to tackle the only man who has ever knocked him out. If the two men ever do meet it will doubtless be in a twenty-round bout, wherein Britt can use his cleverness as an offset to the Dane's penchant for close work.

With both men allowed ample time for training, something which is absolutely necessary when it is remembered that the fighting qualifications of each of them has lain fallow for practically two years, and with the attendant circumstances such that the public would be led to believe that the old rivalry between the pair had been aroused, a Britt-Nelson match would appeal to followers of Queensberry sports.

But as long as some one can point to the fact that Battling Nelson has persistently turned a deaf ear to Britt for two years, and that Battling Nelson recently turned down an offer of a purse of $40,000 to box Joe Gans at Ely, unfavorable comment would be of necessity invited were Nelson and Britt brought together with what might rightly be termed indecent haste.

PILGRIMS BAT POORLY AND LOSE GAMES

Parent and Collins still continue to head the Pilgrims in the stick end of the game, though they fell off just a trifle from a week ago. With the home games ahead there should be a general improvement all round and the figures take a jump.

It doesn't look well to see only two members of a star aggregation above the .300 mark.

The idea of an outfield hitting so lightly is ridiculous, as the gardeners are expected to earn their salaries through the agency of the slap stick. Hoey, the youngster, has got a hump on and passed the .200 mark and Barrett will show something after he gets in the game for good. There is more batting in Congalton than his average shows, as it is a very poor thing for him to be only making eight hits when he has ben forty-eight times at bat.

The reason Grimshaw was benched is apparent at his figures and it is a mystery why the big fellow fell down so when he was going like a streak about this time last year.

BEAUMONT IS STAR BATTER FOR DOVES

If all the National team players were hitting the way Beaumont is lining the ball out there would be something doing. The ex-Pirate has got his lamps on the ball for fair and is going up the ladder like a race horse. He is in a class by himself when compared with the regular players on the team. The only members to keep near him are the pitchers Pfeffer and Boultes. He reached the high mark of .314 last week and is still going.

There has been some improvement made by Tenney, Howard and Brain, and others are likely to hit 'er up on the Western trip.

Ritchey's remarkable fielding makes up for anything he lacks with the stick. He has made but a trio of errors and accepted 227 chances. When his average is better than a firstbaseman of Tenney's calibre his record is all the more meritorious.

BIG GAMES FOR Y. M. C. A.

The big athletic and water carnival of the Massachusetts and Rhode Island Young Men's Christian Association will be held at the Riverside Recreation grounds on Saturday, June 15. In the morning the boy's scratch games will take place. At 1 p. m. the tennis championships and the fifth annual outdoor handicap contests will occur at 2 p. m. A ball game between Newton Y. M. C. A. and Malden is on the card. The aquatic events includes six events.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—If the weather conditions improve the Bostons and Quakers will get together early in a double-header to-day. The teams were shut off by the rain in the Saturday contest, and they are more than anxious to settle the trouble to-day.

The Slowtown fans recognize that the Doves make up a dangerous combination and will be hard to down. They started out on their Western trip with a victory over the locals, and the home crowd wonder if it is going to be a victorious march for the Beaneaters.

The visitors leave immediately after the game and jump to Pittsburg, where they expect a big reception, with the number of ex-Pirates on the team.

INTERNATIONAL BOUTS BILLED THIS WEEK

With three international fights scheduled this week, there will be interest in roped arena ring affairs.

The biggest pugilistic carnival of the week is set for to-night at London, England, at the National Sporting Club, when Sam Langford is booked to meet Geoffrey Thorne, who fought Bob Fitzsimmons at Chicago about eight months ago. Fitzsimmons beat Thorne in one round. Thorne will be easy for Langford if the colored man wants to fight at his top speed.

Another contest at the swell English club will be between Joey Bowker, who may some day meet Abe Attell for the world's featherweight championship, and Jem Driscoll. The latter is regarded almost as highly as Bowker, and a good bout is expected. The promoters admit that Langford ought to beat Thorne very handily, but look for a stubborn battle when Bowker and Driscoll engage.

Another international battle is booked for Thursday at Liverpool, when Albert Delmont will meet Digger Stanley.

HOLD ALLEGED ASSAILANT IN $3,000 BONDS

Haggard and nervous, James P. Quigley of No. 22 Linwood street, Somerville, the man who is charged with having attacked Mrs. Maud Kyes of No. 55 Otis street, Winter Hill, stood up in the dock of the Somerville court to-day and was ordered to furnish bail of $3,000 for his appearance before the grand jury on June 10. Quigley's wife, who believes implicitly in his innocence, was in the courtroom when the case was called.

Quigley was not represented by counsel, nor was Mrs. Kyes, the comely young woman who asserted that Quigley, who is a huckster, came to her home on Decoration Day to sell strawberries, and that he attacked her. She identified Quigley as her assailant after his arrest. Quigley pleaded not guilty to the charge and says that a mistake has been made.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

Roxbury Storage Salesrooms

WHERE BRAINY ECONOMICAL PEOPLE BUY ANY MAKE PIANO—RIGHT

A great many people are ignorant of the fact that the best possible opportunity to buy a piano at the lowest possible price is to get one at the Storage Salesrooms. Sometimes the finest pianos that are made go almost for a song. Some pianos of the best makes that have been used only slightly, and at that in the best homes, are sold for prices that seem impossibly low. New and second hand pianos are sold regardless of price.

Pianos go for prices much lower than an auction would bring. There is no one to bid at a piano storage salesrooms, the price is simply put on, first come, first served, and the careful, economical man or woman who wants to buy a piano economically, in fact more than economically, will watch the storage sales carefully.

The gilded piano stores with their costly appointments, their high salaried sales agents, their sellers' commissions, etc., are no place for the economical piano buyer to go. Take the trouble to look around a little, go up where the rents are not so high and buy your piano right.

Bargains Beginning Monday, May 27

We would advise you to make up your mind to buy your Piano this coming week as soon as circumstances will allow you. There were not enough Pianos in the lot to last through Saturday, May 25, and we do not take any from the accounts for sale until Mondays—People who get in and buy Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays get tremendous bargains—Every Piano is tuned by our expert and is at concert pitch before coming into our salesroom—We let no Piano go out before being assured of its excellent condition.

PROPOSALS.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

State Printing and Binding

State House, Boston, May 29, 1907.

Sealed proposals for the execution of all the printing and binding for the several departments of the government of the Commonwealth, except office stationery and blank books without printed headings, for a term of three or five years from the first day of July in the year 1907, will be received at the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth until ten o'clock A. M. on Tuesday, June 18th, 1907, by the officers designated in Chapter 87 of the Resolves of 1907. Such proposals may be made either for printing or binding, or both. The form of contract required, which is to be based upon a working day of eight hours and equal pay for equal work performed by men and women, at such rates as the officers above referred to shall decide to be equitable between employer and employed, may be obtained on application to the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth. A bond satisfactory to said officers, in an amount not less than ten thousand dollars, will be required from the party to whom such contract is awarded, for the faithful performance of the contract. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids. DANA MALONE, Chairman. JAMES W. KIMBALL, Clerk.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.—Metropolitan Sewerage Works.—Notice to Contractors.—Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board, 1 Ashburton Place, Boston, Mass., until 2:30 P. M., of Friday, June 28, 1907, for constructing in rock and earth trench part of Section 82 of the Extension of the High Level Sewer, South Metropolitan System, in Gorham and Davis Avenues, Brookline Playground, Private Lands, Brington Road and Cypress Street to Boylston Street, in Brookline, in accordance with the forms of contract and specifications to be furnished by the Board. Some particulars are estimated to be as follows: Length, 1350 feet; inside diameter of sewer, 78 inches by 84 inches; 50 cubic yards of Portland brick masonry; 2000 cubic yards of concrete masonry in trench; 300 cubic yards rock excavation in trench. The invert of the sewer is from 15 feet to 27 feet below the street surfaces. Plans can be seen and specifications and forms of contract can be obtained at the above office. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check for two thousand dollars ($2000), payable to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and a bond in the sum of twelve thousand dollars ($12,000) will be required from the successful bidder. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. HENRY H. SPRAGUE, HENRY P. WALCOTT, JAMES A. BAILEY, JR., Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board. WILLIAM M. BROWN, Chief Engineer of Sewerage Works. WILLIAM N. DAVENPORT, Secretary.

The Haverhill Gas Situation and Its Lesson

The People Can't OWN, Can't Lower Price. What Can They Do?

To make and deliver gas at private houses costs less than forty cents per thousand feet. IT IS SOLD AND DELIVERED EVEN FOR LESS THAN THIRTY CENTS PER THOUSAND FEET, in some places.

In this State the Gas and Electric Light Commissioners, after hearings at which the merits of the case were fully discussed, ordered the Haverhill Gas Light Company to sell gas to that city for EIGHTY CENTS per thousand feet.

This would give to the Trust, at the very lowest estimate, twice as much as it ought reasonably to charge.

But the Trust was not satisfied with this permission to charge DOUBLE a fair rate.

With the courage of its kind, it ignored the order, went on charging one dollar, AND HAS KEPT IT UP FOR SEVEN YEARS AND THREE MONTHS!

The Gas Commissioners have been defied, and for all these years, while citizens of Haverhill were being robbed of the reduction that had been ordered, the commissioners have made no move until they were forced to do so recently by Councilman Richard Kavanagh of Haverhill.

If the Gas Trust of Haverhill were made to disgorge the money it has charged in excess of eighty cents for gas during the past seven years IT WOULD BE COMPELLED TO RETURN TO ITS VICTIMS MORE THAN TWO HUNDRED AND FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS.

This would be done if Haverhill had a city government which was not under the heel of the public service monopolies of that city. The Gas Trust knows this, and it is making an effort again to stop the carrying out of the order of the Commissioners issued seven years ago.

IT BELIEVES THAT IT CAN GET IN ONE PLACE OR ANOTHER THE KIND OF LEGAL DECISIONS THAT IT WANTS. And so it defies the people, laughs at the law, collects one dollar a thousand feet—AND THAT IS ALL THE PEOPLE HAVE GOT THUS FAR OUT OF THEIR ATTEMPT AT GAS REDUCTION.

The position of law-abiding citizens who want to do things legally is certainly rather difficult.

The charter of Haverhill and the laws of this State make it almost impossible for the people to manufacture their own gas on the municipal ownership basis.

The Gas Trust and the pull it has will not allow the people to cut the charges of the Trust.

Under the circumstances, what are the people to do? Are they to go on forever being robbed by Trusts, are they permanently to be at the mercy of the corporations?

Is it not true that there is only one solution, WHICH IS MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

The people in the great cities must vote to own and operate their own municipal monopolies, street cars, gas, etc., or remain indefinitely at the mercy of Trusts, high prices and convenient legal decisions.

Roosevelt, Among Other Things, Is LUCKY

Few Men Have Such Useful Enemies

Is a wise friend any more useful than a foolish enemy? Probably not, and President Roosevelt proves that probability.

He is lucky in his enemies, since they include a working majority of the individuals that the average citizen dislikes or distrusts.

For instance, Mr. Roosevelt is attacked energetically, if not ably, by Harper's Weekly and the New York Sun. The people know that J. Pierpont Morgan owns or absolutely controls both of those publications, and consequently Mr. Roosevelt, when attacked, instead of being hurt really gets the benefit of the public feeling toward Morgan.

If a wolf criticizes a sheep dog the sheep crowd up closer to that dog—and very wisely. Similarly, when Morgan's newspapers attack Roosevelt they are simply giving him valuable advertising.

Mr. Roosevelt is strengthened not only by the character and well-known ownership of those that attack him but also by the kind of attack that is made.

For instance, the Sun, in high-stepping language with no particular meaning, attacks Roosevelt because he did not prevent the increase in the pension roll. The Sun accuses him of bribing the old soldiers.

This is an excellent way to solidify the old soldier vote for Mr. Roosevelt. And the people as a whole do not take kindly to the idea that an old soldier sells his vote and his citizenship for a pension of twelve dollars a month.

The Sun is calm when the government allows a Morgan to get twenty millions of public money in some bond or ship deal and much excited when an old soldier or his widow gets twelve dollars a month.

The people realize that an old age pension is not the WORST POSSIBLE form of anarchy. They realize that our pension system, even when applied to ALL old soldiers, is merely an old age pension limited to men that showed their willingness to fight for the country. And they cannot be worked up into any anti-Roosevelt frenzy because he allowed the old soldiers to get and spend a few dollars. As a matter of fact, this newspaper believes that the pension roll of the government HAS BEEN OF THE GREATEST POSSIBLE BENEFIT TO THE COUNTRY AS A WHOLE. It has caused the distribution of many hundreds of millions among men that are old, that need the money and that, with very few exceptions, DESERVE it. This distribution of money has been on the widest possible scale. The millions have been scattered all over the land, in every little village. The pension roll does SOMETHING to counteract the tendency of American wealth to pile up in a few big pockets and the country may be glad of that.

The Sun and Harper's speak for gentlemen that could easily "use" all the money on earth and that think they ought to have it.

But the ordinary people are not horrified to see a few stray pennies escape from Wall Street into the country at large.

With every rascal on a big scale attacking Mr. Roosevelt foolishly, and with no adequate criticism of the REAL mistakes that he makes, Mr. Roosevelt may be called the child of luck—lucky in his friends and luckier still in his enemies.

NO EXECUTIVE RULING ON WOMEN'S HATS

The Woman With the Pipe

By Winifred Black

A MINNEAPOLIS woman is having the time of her life horrifying the innocent passers-by by strolling up and down the main thoroughfare of her native city smoking a large and enthusiastic briarwood pipe.

She says she hates to smoke, and can't bear the smell of tobacco, and she's just smoking in public to show the men of Minneapolis that a woman has just as much right to smoke as they have.

How interesting!

Have women the same right to smoke as men? Why, of course they have.

A woman has as much right to smoke or to drink, or to chew tobacco or to use naughty words, or to put her feet on the table when she talks, or to stand up in the back of the theatre with her hat in her hand, or to get up and give her seat in the street car to another woman, as a man has to do these very commonplace things.

A Woman's Reason

WHY don't women do these things, then? For the simple reason that they don't want to do them.

Men have just as much right to eat chocolates, give teas and sit on the veranda and make tatting as women have. They don't do it, do they? Why should they? They don't want to, that's why.

The American woman does not want to smoke, my dear Minneapolis madam. If she did, she'd do it; and she would not need you to lead her on to the big victory either. What absurd nonsense this idea of a war for rights between the sexes is anyhow!

If I were a nice, rosy peach, growing on a nice, wholesome peach tree, I'd do my best to be as rosy and as wholesome and as peachy as I could.

I wouldn't worry about the apple tree that grew next to me. I'd be a peach, and I wouldn't want to look or seem in any way the least bit like even the prettiest, rosiest apple in the whole orchard.

No Envy Here

IF I were a man, I'd be a man and not an imitation of a woman, and long as I'm a woman I'm going to the things that women like to do, a if anybody calls me a downtrodden slave for minding my own affairs, in my own way—why, that's for them to worry about and not for me.

When I get so that I want to smoke a pipe I'll cut my hair, put on a pair of trousers, and begin to look pleasant at every pretty girl I meet.

Until then, thank you, Madam Minneapolis, you may smoke your pipe alone for all of me.

THE PROBLEM

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

OUT of the wilderness, out of the night
Has the black man crawled to the dawn of light,
Beaten by lashes and bound by chains,
A beast of burden with soul and brains,
He has come thro' sorrow and need and woe,
And the cry of his heart is to know, to know.

You took his freedom and gave it again,
But grudged as you gave it, ye white-faced men,
Not all of freedom is being free,
And a dangerous plaything is liberty
For untaught children.

In vain do you say,
"We gave what he asked for—place and pay
And right of franchise." All wrong, all wrong.
He was but a child to be led along
By the hand of Love. Has he felt its touch?
Nay, you gave unwisely and gave too much,
But you gave not the things that his groping mind
Was reaching up in the dark to find—
They were Love and Knowledge.

Oh, infinite
Must be the patience that hopes to right
The wrongs that are heavy with age and brought
To the level of virtues, by mortal thought,
And greater than patience must be the trust
In the ultimate outcome of what is just,
And in and under and through and above
Must weave the warp of the purpose—love.

Red with anguish his way has been,
This suffering brother of dusky skin.
For centuries fettered and bound to earth,
Slow his unfolding to freedom's birth,
Slow his rising from burden and ban
To fill the stature of normal man.
You must give him his wings ere you tell him to fly,
You must set the example and bid him try.
Let the white man pay for the white man's crime—
Let him work in patience and bide God's time.

Out of the wilderness, out of the night
Has the black man crawled to the dawn of light.
He has come through the valley of great despair—
He has borne what no white man ever can bear.
He has come through sorrow and pain and woe,
And the cry of his heart is to know, to know.

Little Editorials from the People

A CONCISE ANSWER

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Your editorial on happiness takes my attention and causes me to reflect. I think it was Colonel Ingersoll who said the time to be happy is now. The place to be happy is here, and the way to be happy is to make others happy. It seems to me to be concise and has the ring of pure coin. However, your last paragraph is to the same end. Yours fraternally,

THOS. BROTHERS.

HAPPINESS A MYTH

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Seeing your valuable editorial on happiness, my opinion is as long as selfishness and other evils exist on earth there is no happiness and none to look for. A wise rabbi in the Talmud said: "Against our will we are born, against our will we live, and against our will we die." This settles the whole question. Yours truly,

S. BERGER.
